Example Candidate Responses

Cambridge International AS and A Level Literature in English

9695 Paper 3

Cambridge Advanced

Cambridge International Examinations retains the copyright on all its publications. Registered Centres are permitted to copy material from this booklet for their own internal use. However, we cannot give permission to Centres to photocopy any material that is acknowledged to a third party even for internal use within a Centre.

© Cambridge International Examinations 2016 Version 1

Contents

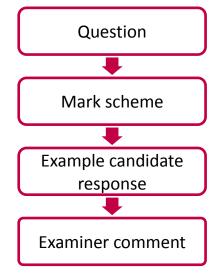

Introduction	2
Assessment at a glance	3
Paper 3 – Poetry and Prose	5

Introduction

The main aim of this booklet is to exemplify standards for those teaching Cambridge International AS and A Level Literature in English (9695), and to show how different levels of candidates' performance relate to the subject's curriculum and assessment objectives.

In this booklet candidate responses have been chosen to exemplify a range of answers. Each response is accompanied by a brief commentary explaining the strengths and weaknesses of the answers.

For ease of reference the following format for each component has been adopted:

Each question is followed by an extract of the mark scheme used by examiners. This, in turn, is followed by examples of marked candidate responses, each with an examiner comment on performance. Comments are given to indicate where and why marks were awarded, and how additional marks could have been obtained. In this way, it is possible to understand what candidates have done to gain their marks and what they still have to do to improve their marks.

Past papers, Examiner Reports and other teacher support materials are available on Teacher Support at https://teachers.cie.org.uk

There are some changes to the format of mark schemes for examinations from 2016. Bands have been changed to Levels and level descriptors have been inverted so that the highest level is Level 6 and the lowest level is Level 1. New specimen mark schemes for examinations from 2016 are available on https://teachers.cie.org.uk

Assessment at a glance

A Cambridge International A Level qualification in Literature in English can be achieved either as a staged assessment over different examination series or in one examination series.

Once Advanced Subsidiary has been achieved, inform Cambridge if the candidate wishes to take the Advanced Level – this notification is not required in advance of achieving the AS qualification.

Advanced Subsidiary (AS) candidates take:

Paper 3	Duration	Weighting
Poetry and Prose	2 hours	50%

and

Paper 4	Duration	Weighting
Drama	2 hours	50%

Advanced Level candidates take:

Paper 3	Duration	Weighting
Poetry and Prose	2 hours	25%

and

Paper 4	Duration	Weighting
Drama	2 hours	25%

and

Paper 5	Duration	Weighting
Shakespeare and other pre-20th Century Texts	2 hours	25%

Assessment at a glance

and either

Paper 6	Duration	Weighting
20th Century Writing	2 hours	25%

or

Paper 7	Duration	Weighting
Comment and Appreciation	2 hours	25%

or

Paper 8	Duration	Weighting
Coursework		25%

Dictionaries may not be used.

Texts are not allowed in the examination room.

Teachers are reminded that the latest syllabus is available on our public website at www.cie.org.uk and Teacher Support at https://teachers.cie.org.uk

Paper 3 – Poetry and Prose

Section A: Poetry

Question 2a

June 2015 Question Paper 31 is available on Teacher Support Site at https://teachers.cie.org.uk

Mark scheme, all questions

Using the mark bands

Place the answer in a band first. Look for the 'best fit' of the answer into a band. An answer needs to show evidence of most but not necessarily ALL of the qualities described in a band, in order to be placed in that band. Then award a mark for the relative position of the answer within the band.

Candidates may address the question in many different ways. Do not expect any particular focus or approach and do not penalise answers for leaving out a particular focus.

Reward what is there, showing what you are rewarding, in your comments.

Consider all strands and weigh up the performance as a whole in placing the answer in a band, then show that you have done so in the summative comment, e.g.

Sound K of texts, some evidence of U but mostly narrative, occasional evidence of P, mainly clear C.

Assessment Objectives:

- Ability to respond to texts in the three main forms (Prose, Poetry and Drama) of different types and from different cultures;
- Understanding of the ways in which writers' choices of form, structure and language shape meanings;
- Ability to produce informed independent opinions and judgements on literary texts;
- Ability to communicate clearly the knowledge, understanding and insight appropriate to literary study.

Each answer is marked out of 25, in accordance with the General Marking Criteria below.

Each band is divided into strands corresponding to the Assessment Objectives – Knowledge, Understanding, Personal Response, Communication.

Mark scheme, continued

Band 6 0 – 5

- K Evidence of some general knowledge of the text which may be narrative based and may contain errors, rarely relevant to the question and with little or no relevant quotation or selection from the text.
- U There may be little or no evidence of understanding of form, structure and language, with some appropriate points made in response to the question. These will be limited and tend to be restricted to plot and characters the latter treated very much as 'real' people.
- P There may be some signs of personal response, not developed into an argument and not fully supported from the text.
- C Communication will be insecure. Expression may be weak with some breakdown in communication. Structure may be lacking: answers are likely to be partial, undeveloped, narrative commentary in approach; with the assertion of simple points rather than progressive lines of argument.

Answers to passage-based questions are likely to be seriously unbalanced, with an emphasis on narrative or paraphrase. Passages are likely to have been only partially understood and tentatively located contextually, with little coherent sense of the relationship between textual part and whole. There will be little or no mention or consideration of the literary features of the passage.

Band 5 6 – 9 Work of a basic standard

- K Evidence of some limited ability to use knowledge of the text to address the question, with occasional use of supporting references or quotation.
- U Evidence of some limited understanding of ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings.
- P Evidence of some personal response to the text but not fully supported.
- C Expression will be basically clear. There may be the occasional confused passage of writing. However, there will be no sustained loss of communication. There may be a simple structure to the answer with some evidence of an argument, which may lack coherence, with some repetition, assertion and relapse into narrative summary/paraphrase. There may be a tendency to drift from relevant discussion into material of tangential significance.

In answers to passage-based questions there will be some evidence of understanding of how part relates to whole. Treatment of the given extracts may well be sketchy or overlong and undiscriminating. Comment on the wider textual issues is likely to be general. There may be a lack of balance between passage and whole text. There will be some limited consideration of the literary features of the text.

Mark scheme, continued

Band 4 10 – 13 Solid work

- K Evidence of some ability to use relevant knowledge of the text to address the question.
- U Evidence of clear understanding of some ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings, which may be partial and restricted to the more obvious aspects of the text.
- P Evidence of personal response to the text, with the beginnings of a personal view or interpretation, relevant to the question and supported from the text.
- C Expression will be mostly clear and appropriate with a clear, simple structure to the answer. Argument will be basically coherent, and assertive in tone. There is likely to be some reliance on paraphrase and narrative summary. Articulates simple ideas with clarity but there may be some imprecision and clumsiness of expression in dealing with more complex concepts. There may be occasional obscurity in the presentation of ideas and responses.

In answers to passage-based questions, work may be lacking in balance of approach, with over-concentration on the given extracts and little attempt to explore the broader textual issues. Conversely some answers may be in effect general essays, with insufficient treatment of the passages. There may be evidence of limited ability to negotiate between parts of a text and its whole. There will be some consideration of the literary features of the text with analysis of the features mentioned likely to be partial or restricted.

Band 3 14 – 17 Competent work

- K Evidence of competence in selecting relevant knowledge of the text to address with some pertinent use of quotation and direct references.
- U Evidence of sound understanding of some aspects of ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings, with some analysis and appreciation of literary methods, effects, and contexts.
- P Evidence of personal response relevant to the question, supported from the text.
- C Expression will be clear and generally accurate. Structure will be sound material coherently organised with occasional insights. Candidates will express intelligent, straightforward ideas clearly, though there may be occasional loss of fluency with points not always strongly connected.

In answers to passage-based questions, work will cover both the passage and its relation to the whole text, and there will be some sense of a relationship between the text as a whole and its constituent parts. There will be competent appreciation of the effects of the literary features of the text and the analysis is supported by relevant examples from the passage.

Mark scheme, continued Band 2 18 – 21 Proficient work

- K Evidence of proficiency in selecting relevant knowledge to address the question with precise and integrated direct references to the text and supporting quotation. There may be evidence of awareness of the contexts in which the literary works studied were written and understood.
- U Evidence of intelligent understanding of ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings, with analysis and appreciation of literary methods, effects and contexts.
- P Evidence of personal response to the texts, relevant to the question, supported from the text, some originality of thought, straightforward and vigorously articulated, perhaps, rather than penetrating and subtle.
- C Expression confident, with some complex ideas expressed with some fluency. Structure is sound. Literary arguments will be coherent, with progression of ideas through clearly linked paragraphs.

In answers to passage-based questions, work will show engagement with both the given extracts and the wider textual issues. There will be a confident relation of a part of the text to its whole. There will be a proficient appreciation of the effects of the literary features of the text supported by relevant examples from the passage and from the wider text where appropriate. There will be a good knowledge of the appropriate context of the extract or work.

Band 1 22 – 25 Very good work – do not reserve this band for the very best work you see but ensure you put scripts into this band which fulfil the requirements described below. There will always be some candidates who are at a standard over the top of the mark scheme.

- K Evidence of a very good ability to select relevant knowledge to address the question with effective use of references and quotation. There may be evidence of sensitive awareness of the contexts in which the literary works studied were written and understood.
- U Evidence of very good understanding of ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings with sustained analysis and sensitive appreciation of literary methods and effects and contexts, possibly including literary genres and conventions.
- P Personal response to texts will be perceptive, often freshly personal, fully supported with quotation, and may show originality in approach to and treatment of questions.
- C Candidates will express complex literary ideas and arguments with clarity and fluency. Answers will have a coherent structure, with logical progression and effectively linked paragraphs. Expression will be accomplished and appropriate.

In answers to passage-based questions, work will sustain an appropriate balance between critical appreciation of given extracts, based on detailed critical analysis, and consideration of the broader textual issues raised by the questions, and relate part of a text to its whole and vice versa in a seamless argument. There will be a very good appreciation of the effects of the literary features of the text, with detailed analysis supported by relevant examples from the passage and the wider text, where appropriate. There will be a very good knowledge of the appropriate context of the extract or work.

Example candidate response - high

2 0	Wilfred Owen uses soldiers' voices in his war poetry to make it more personal and thus more "hard-hitting. Unlike in prems such as '1914' or.
	poetry to make it more personal and thus more hard-hitting. Unlike in poems such as '1914' or 'Futility' where the tone is much more vague and impersonal, his poems where he uses soldiers' voices such as 'The Dead-Beat' and 'The Letter' are to me, more thought-provoking and allow you to connect with the soldiers.
	impersonal, his poems where he uses soldiers' voices such 2 al	as The Dead-Beat and The Letter are to me, more quer	thought-provoking and allow you to connect with the soldiers.
	To begin with the use of soldiers' voices in the poem 'The Dead - Beat' is important as it conveys how per the Dead - Deat is important as it conveys how the war dehumonises soldiers because otherwise they couldn't uppe. We see the soldiers' voices through the L N	use of speech within the new and the use of netho	use of speech within the perm and the use of willoquial language; for example, the 'dead-beat's' cry of "i'll do 'en in!" connects us with this soldier as we see how desperate he is to survive. However, of "'i'll do 'en in!" connects us with this soldier
K	as we see how desperate he is to survive. However,
ana anto tanyana amanakilan ara manananin ahan	it is inknown whether he is referring to the Germans
W	or to the warmongers in Britain. Owen creates this Carbeel	ambiguity to express his our opinion that the British warmongers were the real evenue. At the time this 1.10	view would have been common among the soldiers and KIU	It is inknown whether he is referring to the Germans or to the wormongers in Britain. Owen creates this ambiguity to express his own opinion that the British wormongers were the real enemy. At the time this view would have been common among the soldiers and therefore Owen is able to prtray the opinion of many soldiers through the voice of one. This is supported by onother soldier, claiming "It's Blighty!" - in others words, it's Britain that is causing all of the pain of the Great War. Another important effect that the use of direct speech in this prem has is to show how the soldiers have been dehuemanised by the war. The amount of death and brutality that soldiers 11 - 2	saures mough the voice of are. This is supported by detail	words it's Britain that is causing all of the min of the Great War. Another important ellect that the use of direct speech in this even has is to show how the soldiers have been dehumanised by the war.
	The amount of death and brutality that soldiers would have seen during World War One was so interse that many soldiers lost the ability to sympathise with their concredes. In 'The Dead - Beat', this is personified in the Doctor. He is described to have a "well-whiskied
PK	would have seen during World War One was so intense that many soldiers lost the ability to sympathise with their controdes. In 'The Dead - Beat', this is personified  	in the Doctor. He is described to have a well-whiskied

· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
	laugh", showing firstly how he has resorted to alcohol in order to cope with the scale of death that he witnesses daily, and also conveying a sense almost of julity - he does not seem bothered by the deaths in order to use with the scale of death that he NC.	witnesses daily and also conveying a sense almost of
e e sab	jullity - he does not seem bothered by the deaths Line Muse (10() thill he has here demunder leal
6	Furthermore, he says " that sum you sent down
0	last night soon died. Hooray!" Rather than being NI	Furthermore, he says "'that sum you sent down last night soon died. Hooray!' Rather than being upset about another death, he is relieved because it is use loce in a sidier lie here to used chart
P	The effect of this is shocking - contrary to the image of camaraderie that was adapted in England at image of camaraderie that was adopted in England at the time (through poets such as Jessie Pope and her pro-wor jingoisms) Owen used individual voices to postray the harsh truth many soldiers had become K	so you of emotions that they did not care when another died. This links with the poem 'Inspection' when the soldier is told by his official "blood is ast	dirt". Again we see a lack of sympathy for any ulk	the time (through pets such as sessie tope and he pro-wor jingoisms) Owen used individual voices to pootray the harsh truth," many soldiers had become so used of enotions that they did not care when enother died. This links with the psen 'Inspection' when the soldier is told by his official "blood is dirt." Again we see a lack of sympathy for any pain or suffering because they are so surrounded by it, and instead it is treated inkinally, as mess or 'dirt." This psen also uses the voices of the soldiers in another way and not just through direct speech. They are also prevalent in the psen itself, showing how deady the point can that the soldiers had become and instead it is treated inkindly, as mess or dirt.
	This poem also uses the voices of the soldiers in another way and not just through direct speech. They are also prevalent in the poem itself, showing how energeneinten) al falaisean an ear an ar ann an ann an ann an an an an an an an	deeply the opinion ran that the soldiers had become dehumaised. When describing the 'dead-beat soldier, Save	Oven uses phrases like "stupid like a cod ord ~!/	"heavy like meat, which are impletely lacking in ang taun ang sa sina di kanakan na a mang tai kanakan sina ang sa sa	emotion or sympathy and suggest that perhaps Osen are also prevalent in the permitself, showing how deeply the opinion ran that the soldiers had become dehumaised. When describing the 'dead-beat' soldier Owen uses phrases like "stupid like a cod" ord "heavy like meat", which are completely lacking in emotion or sympathy and suggest that perhaps Own himself no longer possesses such qualities. These similes prtray the soldier as an object rather than a human being and thus we see how the soldiers had to become inservible in order to cope. Therefore in this perm, Owen uses the soldiers' voices both through direct portray the soldier as an object rather than a human K	being and thus we see how the soldiers had to become insensible in order to cope. Therefore in this per, Uwen uses the soldiers' voices both through direct speech and within the permitself to portray how the soldiers of the Great War were dehumanised and lacked sympathy for their comrades, creating a shocking effect but one that you can connect to due to the use of soldiers' voices. Another poem that uses soldiers' voices is 'The Letter'. However I believe both the way in which it is used and the effect. that it has differs er verennen het en sin hat de klanten des fanges energe erste sekerenden de	soldiers of the great War were dehumarised and lacked sympathy for their comrades, creating a shocking effect but one that you can connect to due to the use of soldiers' voices.
•	V

and	Another poem that uses soldiers' voices is neur	"The Letter". However I believe both the way in Ko -	which it is used and the effect that it has differs from 'The Dead - Beat'. The format of this prem is not an enphasis on direct speech but rather in from 'The Dead - Beat'. The format of this prem is not an enphasis on direct speech but rather in 14	a letter to the soldier's family at home, and this differs from 'The Dead Beat' (although both use differs from 'The Dead - Beat' (although both use u	colloquial larguage thus allowing us to form a personal connection). A letter from a soldier to his family would have been a very personal thing and 1/10	so this open gives us insight into the soldiers' belief anter and the second	and principies. The soldier is this open makes relevence to colloquial language thus allowing us to form a personal connection). A letter from a soldier to his family would have been a very personal thing and so this per gives us insight into the soldiers' beliefs and priorities. The soldier in this per makes reference to his "feet" and "bread" and seems to avoid mention of the suffering of war. This depicts how soldiers did not x	suffering of war. This depicts how soldiers did not wort to trouble their loved ones and so instead talked about relatively trivial things In my pointin back to clouble their loved ones the stinstead talked about relatively trivial things. In my opinion, the effect of this is different to 'The Dead - Reat though just as important. Instead of portraying soldiers as dehumaised and unsympathetic, it shows how much they care for their family and thus creates sympathy for them as they are surranded by so much misery but are still trying to sed a positive image home. In the second part of the prem, we are made aware that a bomb has exploded next to the soldier withing the lefter lanear instead of though just as important. Instead of portraving soldiers as dehumaised and unsumpathetic it shares have much PK	that care by their limite and thus creates sumother by them as there are surranded by so much misery but are still taine to and a positive image home. In the second part of the per we enterente en estas en enterente en enterente per enterente en enterente en enterente en enterente en enterente	are made aware that a prub has excluded next to the soldier witing the lefter. Resource instead of 12	conjulting the static singly sure "I'm hits" Perhaps in some wave this is similar to The Dead-Boat to the soldier writing the letter. However instead of pariching, the soldier simply says "I'm hit." Perhaps in some ways this is similar to "The Dead-Beat" because it prtrays a tack of sympathy for injuries as Louisee	in the proof of and of appropring to indicates as t

1	they are so common-clearly the soldier has been
. 8	laced with this situation before as he stars calm and knows exactly what to do. His individual voice portrays the horror of the situation but this is not reflected in the letter he is writing - again voice ortraus the horror of the situation but this is not reflected in the letter he is writing - again an phasicing has the soldiers did not bot site for K	emphasising how the soldiers did not feel pity for thenselves or anyone else and did not want their energi i gin an	charbened or majore end that we can dear femilies to know the truth. The per pushes with femilies to know the truth. The per finishes with the soldier to ask his friend to "write my old girl"
	- despite having been shot, his priority is on his family, creating sympathy for him and showing the true priorities of the sattiers.
PK	and the for him and drawing the tag
110	creating sympathy to new was stowing the one priorities of the saddrers.
-	In unclusion, Owen uses soldiers' voices to prtray the true beliefs of the soldiers and to make his petry more personal through direct speech and colloquial language. This has two main efforts; as in The Dead-Beat, where it helps prhay soldiers as dehumaised, and in 'The Letter', where manual and an and the second	as in the second peak, where we possible integ soldiers as detrumanced, and in the Letter, where it creater sympathy for the soldiers as we see their privity of their femilies.
	their origity of their lendies.
anana ana ana ana ana amin'ny soratra amin'ny soratra amin'ny soratra amin'ny soratra amin'ny soratra amin'ny s	were printing of the printing
	Y .

1

Examiner comment - high

This effective essay begins by setting up an argument in response to the question, while the opening also places the chosen poems into the context of Owen's poetry. The particular qualities of poems with soldiers' voices are recognised and two appropriate poems have been chosen.

The essay initially focuses on 'The Dead-Beat'. It gives an overview of the poem but quickly picks up matters of the use of speech and colloquial language, with quotations used to support the points. There is some consideration of interpretations before the essay goes on to discuss Owen's use of voices of other soldiers, making links to Owen's concern with the dehumanisation of soldiers in warfare. The focus on the Doctor shows specific and detailed knowledge with appropriate comments. Quotations are used effectively to support points about the Doctor's attitudes to the dead and dying. The points here are also developed with historical and literary contexts; attitudes to war are discussed with reference to Jessie Pope and Owen's poem 'Inspection'.

The essay moves on to consider the poetic voices as a soldier's voice as well as the use of direct speech in the poem, which allows the candidate to comment on the descriptive similes used. These successful points could have been more focused if the essay had acknowledged Owen's created persona, rather than making the assumption that the poetic voice is Owen himself.

The essay moves on to consider 'The Letter' with the purpose of contrast, giving shape to the argument of the essay. Again a quick overview provides the foundation for points to follow. The essay discusses how the soldier avoids communicating difficult truths, presenting a sympathetic view of him to the reader. The discussion of 'The Letter' is less detailed than the treatment of 'The Dead-Beat', but the poem is nevertheless used purposefully and successfully in the overall construction of the argument.

The essay's conclusion pulls together the main points already made rather than making any new final point. This essay demonstrates highly proficient selection of knowledge of Owen's poetry and shows some intelligent understanding of how direct speech and voice is created and used by the poet to effect the communication to the reader. It is clearly constructed with evident relevant personal response.

Total mark awarded = 20 out of 25

Example candidate response - middle

0	(.)
2	(a)	The poems 'The letter' and the sentry were both written by Wilfred Owen with the characteristic of having a frontline soldier as their personas. In the case of 10 both poems, the persona is used a literary both poems, the persona is used a literary device to garner the symphaty of the readers,
-	-	whilst also giving an indept portroyal of OUE	10 an	the soldiers themselves along with the er ganne Spanner		presentations of the War.
		'The Detter'
		The constrate of 'the letter' is shown to ind and	contain very intimate and personal enchange between the persona and his wife. Wilfred 4 S.S		Owen deliberately inserted tone the tones of suggesting social intancy by the inclusions of the word (mother' and the K/i 1	4) 4 (4) (4) (4) (4) (4) (4) (4) (4) (4)	through the mention of the persona's sittle
n Ma	K	children asked to be "kissed" by the end of the poem. This has a decisive impact upon •		readers who might symphatize with the P
n		Persona due to the connotation of love £		and affection being indely interrupted by 1	K	the presumed death of the persona. On the side note, 'the sentry' opts to attract the readers sense of sympathy through in completely ν different means. The brinded soldier in the poetry poem is store to portracd the poem merely as an out of place h 11	1.	child due to the being (coased by
и	ling	the other soldiers and the Whilming]
	· ·	the of the said soldier. This Idea of a 1	soldier being a mere child at times of War

14

Example candidate response – middle, continued

	is similarly developed by Owen in 'The east laugh' where a soldier cries out his 'mother' and 'father' in a patel
K	pathetic visualization, thildishness and Pity.
	Thus, Via visualizing soldiers as hopeless
1.2.4	children, rather than the traditionally begieved ρ	image of prova Warriors, Owen Manages to grasp the fee readers able sympathy towards P	These soldiers, coming from their own ve.
analise a superior construction of the second s	Both poems also manages to paint an Impression of warfare at the front.
	I In 'The Detter', the persona mentions It the dominant absence of them "square
	'eaded uns' whilst 'The sentry' sends spends k
	the former half describing the soldiers
K	the tormer hait describing the societs Struggle through (much's The portrayal here is significant in it self since it shows the lack of Physical contact between 4	the two opposing armies between that is k
	St. in-stark contrast to the prop & jingaishe portroyal , like wise , the both the poem, that action only occurs at K	a distance, the persona bei in 'ne deflei' & being "hit and the soldier in "the sentry" being he victim of an enemy artillery
K	shell. Ergo, through all these devices, Owen prime is able to show a realistic intrepretation of modern Warfare to combat the jingoistic notion propagated by encly war propagada that illustrates wer K/	as being "Adventerous whilts kensoring its true Nature. This is somewhat alluted to States of the second strength	the second second second second in 'the letter' where the real action 11-11	Instru	in warfare is written in Brackets, censoring

n pi		the morbid contents from the personais (dear wife'
	P	and ultimately the public. a funtitut Presumbio of Mportraged antonei misetta dai wata	The soldiers in both poems are also developed by wilfred owen. In the an a ch	'The letter' the amount of formality intially instigated from (with the B.E.F' remark is negated instantly with the  	line	cuces of the persona for his broken pencil.
	u	This sense of informality is maintained k
	N g ded	throughout the poem via # the use of h
4		collogoalism in the words 'Ruddy' and
	. 0	the personal insistent of an not accentuating of the Detter 'H' in such words in de	as 'ended' and 'uns'. Here, Wilfred Owen
	p	Manages bigives life to words these soldiers rather than pertaining the amount of stripped K down individuality usually associated with the common soldier. Owen also suggests the amount of Cameraderie khat exists between 12 /1	the soldiers through the personali use p l	и	of (us' is as a synecoche to symobolize the persona and his group of men. The sense of Cameraderie on the other, is completely Furgothen in the sentry where he persona
	12	is shown to have Forgothen] [the 6Rinded]
	ĸ	soldier there and the blinded soldier soldier being 'flory for dead' also accentuates the ~	luch comeradeship, Rather than paint the p	lach Comeradeship, Rather than paint the Soldicis with character give "the letter", The K	sentry' she presents soldiers as a degraded

٦

16 life forms similar to mimals from the

И.	- ling	diction cherded' and living in a chen' connohing 10 ⁻¹ 10	0	lack of humanily and dominant animalism. The degrading factor is also reserved to by wilked oven in Dla Oulce et decorm Est' where K	soldiers are induced to ald hags. In retrospect Wilfred owen manges to capture different portrayals of soldiers from both the sentry and "the letter' through a soquers voice In conclose sion. Owen Reimains through hi ian Sir y	his promise of writing about the pity of War, Give The possid the presentation of war
	P	Coupled with sympathy and the torkorn puindizable of soldiers is cleverly captured by oven through the voice of his own comrade.

Examiner comment – middle

The opening of the essay introduces two appropriate poems, 'The Letter' and 'The Sentry', without directly focusing on the issue of voices raised by the question.

The ongoing discussion, however, implies a competent grasp of the question by referring to the 'intimate and personal exchange' of 'The Letter' and the 'tones of... social intamcy (intimacy)'. The role of this 'exchange' in creating reader sympathy for the soldier is clearly recognised. A link of sympathetic response is used to connect 'The Letter' with 'The Sentry', creating a purposeful development of the essay. The plight of the soldier is considered appropriately, though this without a clear and direct focus on the issue of soldiers' voices raised by the question.

The essay continues to deal with the two poems together, moving between them logically and easily. It considers again the situation of the solders in warfare. While there are quotations from soldiers' speeches, opportunities to discuss voice and dialogue directly are missed. Therefore the focus on the question is implicit rather than explicit. It is stated that Owen does 'show a realistic interpretation of modern warfare', which is certainly true, but the point is not directly related to the question. There is, however, some recognition that the bracketed sections of 'The Letter' represent what is not expressed to the soldier's wife at home.

There are more direct comments on voice when the essay looks at the use of colloquialisms and the dropped 'h' of casual speech, appreciating that by these means Owen creates a sense of individuality for the soldiers and that a sense of camaraderie is created by the dialogue. This is contrasted to the absence of comradeship apparent in 'The Sentry', though the points here are less well supported.

It is only at the end of the essay that the candidate refers to voice. While this is a competent essay, with appropriate selection of knowledge and some sound understanding of poetic method, a clearer focus on the question would have gained a higher mark.

Total mark awarded = 15 out of 25

Example candidate response - low

۲	۹	Owen has used the charaders of within his poems to display a number of emotions and reactions to the hyppenings within he poem. As must of his perems Neoda	latur	involve the tragedies of war, Owen makes use of the charavers within his prem to project as a sense of dread and dispair.
Or	r	the charaders batting but grand to enclose the of soldiers' va	rier	of dread and dispair.
		or aread cha dispair.
11 - 14 - 14 - 14 - 14 - 14 - 14 - 14 -		Within his poems, the soldiers are subjected to heavy
P-1 noun	orted	amounts of crueity and suspense. Most of these ear
, in the second s		results to a number of reelings to words the readers
Co nserved (1997) (1997) (1997)		and also the poet themselves. The fact remains that the soldier's
	R	vorce is the proof of how horrible and territying war can be 2		7C .
		0
		A prime example of this use of soldier's voice is in 'Dulle et decorum est'; during the gas attack. The soldier
	K	in a state of panic shouts gas! gas! gas! ' toulowed by the punic - stricken reliuw internmes desperately trying to get their gas musks on in time. 'gas! gas! gas!
 	lary	was a repitition by owen to portray the sudden and the second second second	v	attack of guses used by enemies. The reputition reputition ИК	showcased the panic of the intentry as they were as ······		he desperately my to interm his reliow soldiers. The exclamation
-		marks used complimented the hectic state of the soldiers.
		Another inlereshing thing is that it seems that the soldiers very much reared the gases and were not composed when the enemy used them. In contrast to the soldier
F	1/4	just saying 'gas!' only onle, repearing it would compliment and a second	1	the rear that the soldiers had rowards the gas bombs. It was something that the soldiers know did not wont to face for an and a second		during battle. Ne effect of these is the suspense and
******************* *****************
	P	panic of war. War was not predictable as snown to
I	1	how the soldier's reacted to the gas shells.

	The soldier's voice can also be used as an indicator
P	ot suffering; again using 'Dulie et decorum est'. As owen  	described one soldier who was 'gargling' from his u-i	froth-corrupted lungs. The word 'gargling' used by own ower a cacophonous saind in which proved awas & the sheer brutality of not being able to speak due to the gas, only able to gargle which could not be understood. The boltaver was gurging' voice was enough to portray how soldier's are dehumanised and die a homitic death due to the gas. His votce was a compliment ru why the soldier's feared the gas as discussed in the previous paragraph. The soldier's vorce in this paragraph proved that on the effects of what 17 has on the readers; the feeling
P/K	of helplessness as well as a paintul death, which was the reality of war.
	Another poem can also be used to showcase on how Owen mukes use of the soldier's voice to describe his message on war. The sentry involves a scout who was blinded due K	to a bomb shell. The soldier screamed 'I'm blind!' which creates a pititul effect towards the soldiers. The soldiers were taken away of their senses. It also creates the effect that unsupported	war takes away a person's ability to sense and reel, causing these soldiers to be aloof and hardened. Represen
	When Owen wrote 'the sentry', the words 'I'm blind' may not Interally mean the soldier lost his signis but was a subtle
ρ	message that soldiers are senseless towards lite when they are 1	put to war.
	Another part of the poem in which owen makes use of the soldier's voice is during the final part of the Sening'.
	The blinded soldier; attachts although not guoled has said that he suw the light that his fellow men had flashed but their 'lights have already died out.' Ne imagery here is very pititul as the lust part of the poem implies. It invokes the effect that He soldier was hoping to see again but only our the reader to discover that the light has died out. It creates a ρ	negative effect towards the idea of hope in countery of the hopeful soldier. The soldier's voice purrayed the fahility and

P	hypelessness of war and its effects of the soldiers. The reders 100 (S) (S)	would also be able to teel the sense of hopelessness on the u-4	one line of the poem, which survey jushitres this reeling of dread and rupnipy.
	In conclusion to this essay, Owen has made use the soldier's voice us corres out in his poems to voice out the inhumanity P	of war and the chuos it brings to know men. The soldier's voice was a powerful tool to project the reality of war, which bushes the propogenda of their countries who pritray the 'dune et decoram' of soldier's and the glory, rame and respect it gives. It was ne soldier's voice was a powerful tool against jinguism,

Examiner comment - low

The opening of this essay acknowledges the context of 'the tragedies of war', but no reference is made to the question until the third paragraph, meaning the first two paragraphs are general and undirected. When the question of soldiers' voices is brought into focus, the first poem chosen is 'Dulce et Decorum Est'. While there are points to be made about this poem, there are several other poems in the selection which would provide richer grounds for discussion. The choice here limits the candidate as the only example of voice the essay examines is 'Gas! Gas!'. Though the quotation gives an inaccurate triple repetition, the point made about the indication of the suddenness of the attack and the ensuing 'panic' is valid. The point, however, is laboured without development in the paragraph.

The reference to the soldier 'gargling' as an interpretation of Owen's use of soldiers' voices is more tenuous, though the point of the verb suggesting dehumanisation and 'horrific death' can be accepted.

The candidate is on firmer ground with 'The Sentry', appreciating the pity evoked by the exclamation 'I'm blind!' However, that is the only example of the soldier's voice examined in the essay. The further dialogue in the poem is not considered; instead the candidate focuses on the reference to the soldier's eyes.

While this essay demonstrates knowledge of the two poems chosen, there is limited ability to select from this knowledge in order to respond to the question set. There is some appreciation of Owen's language and imagery, but again this is limited and not always made relevant to the question. The essay is clearly and fluently written but lacks a secure grasp of the question.

Total mark awarded = 9 out of 25

Question 2b

June 2015 Question Paper 31 is available on Teacher Support Site at https://teachers.cie.org.uk

Example candidate response - high

	2 2 2 4 7 4 1 4 1 4 1 4 1 4 1 4 1 4 1 4 1 4 1
2 b	On my songs is one of Owen's earlier poems, withen
K Context	before the war, and presents interestingly a number of his ideas about poetry and why he chooses to write it.
S	The point is roughly it somet form, replacing the
K.	and one the "inseen Doets" it recorregies in the reach line
4 form	I and the coder of colif al la color
GEBRI
, J	three lives rather than the usual four times and ruy ning couplet. This break from Indition reflects the 1	way Owen feels about poetry Make, that he, and 40	perhaps many others, cannot always relate to the to the p the p the p prampional poerry of the comantic greats.
	The use of "songs" in the fitte of the poem suggests that owen sees his poetry as something P	cathartic for others and services as an outlet con constration cathartic for others and perhaps as an outlet for prushabion In line 1, Owen repeats "many and many" to shess
	the mater the at safe This las is the thick Teaniwe	be great number of poets. This The is also activents
- V	after an extension of Horee lines from the iambic penhameter, the estinded form replecting the meaning.
	The capitalisation of focts in the first line also seenes Jerice	links them to god, perhaps replecting his sections that
P	links them to god, perhaps replecting his pecting that they provided for him what god provides for others, it replecting the benuisty of his faith at that time.
1	reductive the lemister of the the field love
	The renter of the faith at that Hine.
	The enjampement that between lines four and five u Derie	"easing the clow / of my", makes the line appear to perre	flow onto the nest, making the poem more emploie.
	flow onto the nest, making the poen more emplore. The language in line five is described as "succet as sobs", the simile the of drawing these two incongruous
12	Sobe the simile the drawing these hun incommence
Melkou	hands hadken achade adade Anale in allike
No.	words together perhaps repleds Owen's congusion Harting Elfled	and emphonen state as he mis enjoy. In line six, the and emphand state as he this enjing. In line six, the "
u	peel of the poem as own tries to emplate the insur Style linker	Poets" style. The caesuric Gull stop half way through to meain	Poets" style. The caesuric full stop half way through line seven emphasises the property log back nihilistic image
C	provide a start and the prophy por board with his the second and a second and the the line as well as a shessing the finality of the help the pooling others have withen can give him after a repetition of "Asrobs Throbs" reclects the soint. It which owen is describing sical throbbing reinforce the image. The represents to both his emphasise the physicality r and line 8 brain in the lack of help it seels & other poetry giveshim at the beginning of line bis Nine serves to the sound's annaic feel, the add "reveries" at the cond of the line, summing n by the strange songs that he as poem of draws the at the end The Selegino Colon this Further as he explains his Hoen in He Ka vulnerable child, implying Hoat mbo describe give a voice to the 10 voiceless his 0 mes Heme that is seen Horough Liveryc much work. By describing netaphonically himself Atime motherless child, he to use Croonina aous on 08 " singing ... Self to steep " Sibilance allikenshive of slightly uneasy, reader seel Detria make He quality the giving the annal low Croonings also start of the final higher, tha Owen directly He addreses the reader, " thon", asking us to directly CA vorce and offering up his poetry impathose with him w .1 The capitalisation "Sick Hoom ne are in need . Orading the Dark both charlos emphasise U the inages, as well as purhaps suggesting Frat Hey are Ruelizer allegories for bing in a place metaphonical and d. god min, Mart wanting "illumine without n bur P insecurities or lack of ones or "Listen; , placed colon When the after He sta ar fle rader last line fornisses the has to m to them. The assinance of "thee ease" Say serves to M soften the sound, comforting the reader and reflecting the consolation he is brying to give them with his poem. L.

24

Examiner comment - high

The contextual opening of this essay acknowledges that 'On My Songs' is a poem which Owen wrote before the outbreak of World War One, focusing clearly on the question about 'ideas about poetry'. The context is used relevantly and the question is clearly acknowledged.

The essay recognises that Owen's use of the sonnet form is one of the connections he makes with the other poets he refers to in the poem. While the point about the sestet shows some confusion between the Elizabethan and Petrarchan sonnet forms, there is a clear attempt to consider how Owen has manipulated the sonnet form and the connection he makes to the Romantic poets is recognised.

From this overview, the essay works through the poem, maintaining relevance to the question and focusing consistently on key elements of the writing. The discussion includes the implications of the title and the use of repetition ('many and many') to emphasise the number of poets, though the point made about the extension of the iambic pentameter is not made with complete clarity. The discussion of 'sweet as sobs' is perceptive, as is the comment on archaic syntax, another link with the poets who have influenced the young Owen.

There is detailed attention to Owen's choices of language, patterns and punctuation, with careful analytical comments which articulately demonstrate how these choices communicate the meaning of the poem, with consideration of their effects on the reader. There are occasional assertions which are less convincing, such as that the 'enjambement' makes 'the poem more emotive', but the section on the 'crooning motherless child' is a particularly good example of developed and detailed argument.

The essay is consistently detailed and makes full use of the poem printed on the question paper. It demonstrates an excellent understanding of the poem which is expressed in a cogent and articulate style.

Total mark awarded = 24 out of 25

Example candidate response - middle

2	(b)	In his poem "On My Sones", Willred Owen
		In his poem "On My Sorgs", Wiffred Owen presents his own personal ideas about poetry through Q	his description of how poetry has either helped him, or sometimes not, throughout his life. Owen uses a common structure in this poem with every other ρ	line thyming with the previous. This choice allows Sector and the sector of the s		him to easily present his ideas about poetry of other poets as well as his own.
		Throughout "On dry Songs", techniques such as personification, similes and repetition are used to reflect Owen's typical figurative larguage used in his other poems. The repetition of many and "Many and marky" poets had helped Owen in his struggles with his own personal issues, such as disillusionment biogra	phical	with religion, which stemmed from his time at K	Wunsten. Owen's "soul's cry" has indeed seeked help and answers in the poetry of Sason and Shelly, who, he felt, "knew This we". Owen pouses on the fact that, in times of hopelessness, poetry K	eased The flow of this durnb lears", emphasizing the effect that this form of self-expression had had on him. The poetry that Owen had read, its K
		"Paneucipe sweet as sobs", had indeed helped him deal with a lot of emotional turnoil, such as the one which he had esperienced during his time in the
	. (4	deal with a lot of emotional turnoil, such as the one which he had experienced during his time in the First World War.
		On the other hand, Owen recognices that not all poetry had a positive effect on him, although it did influence him nevertheless. Some "hoards of thought"- K	a metaphor he uses to describe the poems - "hold nothing for Owen as, in his opinion, they are womp, che example of me of the nexts where and bing	hical	wrang, An example of one of the poets whom Owen deeply opposed would be fessie Pope, who inspired the biogray	K	regny opposite watter of dessite rope, who manied the
A UCIES		•

26

Example candidate response – middle, continued

, ang	o ouna
		poem 'Dulce et Decorum est' Indeed, as "On My Sonps" 360	i kan in sa	has foreshadowing notions, hinting sliphtly on what the war will bring, the negative tone in lines 6-8 further p	supports the fact that not all peetry brings good to i natisi	the world. Furthermore, from the very beginning of the );[Sava	poem, where the first word is "though", the reader
	u-	already knows that not all is positive and lighthearter dans.	lang.
	J	in tone shows Owen's altering perspective, which did
	K
		from England, to France, to the front line.
	U. n.	After the brief transition of tone in the middle of the single entity poem, which changes the roice from 61		sweetly light to mildly bitter, Owen shifts to an even 1.1	darher mood through his use of gloomy vocabulary.
		Although the poem uses first person throughout with Although the poem uses first person throughout, with frequent use of "me", the last six lines sester moves Ц-	the dominant position. Now, Owen is the one "lend ling.
smic		ease" and with his "own weird reveries". Indeed, he did end up becoming a highly published poet, whose poems touch many people even to this day. The self-•		reflection, the comparison of his poetry to the "low
•		crownings of a motherless child", support Owen's belief that the "poetry is in the pity". He did, in fact, portray a lot of nity in his war seetny; in "The End,"
	K	belief that the "poetry is in the pity". He did, in fact, portray a lot of pity in his war poetry; in "The End," The Earth is crying its "Hanic Jears", Lerrified of what The war had done; in "Disabled", the "legless" soldier the war had done; in "Disabled", the "lepless" soldier
	K	is forgotten as women choose the "whole" men, who did not go to battle. On dry Songs reassures the reader that и	Owen well pity them, but also empathise with them as the "lie in This J Sich Room".
		"On My Sones" emphasices the idea that meetry, and "On My Songs" emphasices the idea that poetry, and any other type of art, influences people in some ways,
/

Paper 3 – Poetry and Prose

Example candidate response - middle, continued

	T
		and if we are not happy with what is created, we should by to fight it. For instance, war poetry whose
	- a'	sole puppose was positive propap anda, did not "throb"
	1	with Owen's heart, so poems ruch as "Anthem for Doomed Youth" and "clental Cases" were written. This idea that 1.000	some poetry helped Owen, whilst other work angered
	p	him, is clearly endent in "On dy Souge"
		In & conclusion, it can be said that owen presents ideas about poetry through his self-reflective tone as well as unintentional foreshadowing. The structure of the poem, which is not an English or Italian Sonnet like the mayority of his other works, allows Owen to Jone	u-	smoothly fransition from a preatful and kind tone, to		to a more bitter one. "On My Songs" reflects Owen's cynicism, which prew stronger through the war, and recognizes the fact that all people need help to escape the
-		"Dark" which they dread.

Examiner comment - middle

The opening of this essay is straightforward but clear, showing that the question has been understood.

The second paragraph's reference to personification, similes and repetition is presented as a list without exemplification. It would have been a more successful strategy to use these terms when they become directly relevant to the discussion. Though written in general terms, the essay shows a sound grasp of Owen's recognition of the role of poetry as a comforter in times of sorrow. Here, though, the references to the First World War and Jessie Pope are potentially misleading as this is a poem written before the war.

The focus on small words, such as 'though' and 'yet', is observant and successful, appreciating the effects on reading the poem. There is recognition of the shift in the mood of the language in this poem, and the reference to the sestet implies a recognition of the sonnet form, which is confirmed in the final paragraph of the essay.

While the focus on Owen's view of his own verse as expressed in the poem is valid, the wider references to other poems such as 'Disabled', 'Anthem for Doomed Youth' and 'Mental Cases' do not advance the argument and the candidate would have been more successful with closer attention to the set poem.

The essay shows a competent appreciation of 'On My Songs', in a shaped and organised response. The references to other poems and to biographical and World War One contexts are not always helpful and move the balance of the response towards general and sometimes less relevant discussion, but a competent knowledge and understanding of the set poem remain apparent.

Total mark awarded = 15 out of 25

Example candidate response - low

2	b	On My Songs Wilfred Owen creates a very Dark, deep setting for the poor and Davk, deep setting for the poon and executes it well by using unfamiliar language
u -		such as "knew my woe" and a fair amont of repetition ("many and many a time", Not one veloped	of repetition ("many and many a time". Not one verse that throbs, Throbs with my heart").
		Many "Unscen" poets answered him "as if"
	K	Many "Unscen" poets answered him "as if" bley knew his problems (wae), ble "Unscen
	K	pocks could be resinating with overs experiences
	P	and so their "rime" rould be owns soul Crying "
		Owen refers bohis bears as being "dumb"
	P	which can could mean that the he was (dumb) things which could be southed (dumb) things which cavid be sooked
- rinde	veloped	with "language sweet as sols" being a contradiding to is puetic reference to good news or happier his
	P	it's poetic reference to good news or happier his information sobing being only a sitight improved to crying
		In line 6 and 7, Owen the explains his Massive amount of thoughts mean nothing to him and " not one verse that throbs" saying secure U	K	that nothing his brain can pub bagether will Say that have he really, brony feels in his hearts.
		Repetition of Kle word "throke" is used
	n in an	and it reinforces how shrong Queen
19 11-11-11-11-11-1	K	Repetition of ble word "throts" is used and it reinforces how strong Queop Owen's true feetings are, but he has no words to describe then with.
Insee	re K	no words to describe then with.
PERCEN		He could also have no words because his brain is "Frought" meaning its fired or by blais fine he has been completly treinwauhed Anterior and a second second brain is "Frought" meaning its fired or by 30

Example candidate response – low, continued

4.	by the warzone .
	"Tis blen I voice mine own weird revenues", This could be describing, with poetic licence Needs further linguation	he really feels in this heart albeit,
K-undeveloper	in a "weird" manner because his brain is boo "fraught".
	The word "Croomgs" in line 10 is, agan, a poetic way of saying that the child was solving quietly or crying quietly. The child had wor mathem Insecure K	Presumably to she had been killed by the war. The child was therefore bernfied because he was alone, singing himself. to sleep, Then Own asks himself.
	"are blese", is he ble mobleriess child? Altre ble Low croonings ore his an "dund Owen is " Dreading the Dark" by this he means.
K	he is scored of the unknown but
P Assertion	equally he "darest not illuminate" meaning he dosent want to know / be enlighted with what the future holds, its most likely not going to turn out well.
Etamples nieded	Owen makes use of a few similies and metaphors with good effect- as the successfully reduce the original intent of the word, back down to the gloony atmosphere of the poen eg. "Sweet as soes",
	eg. "Sweet es sites",

	as the	Doem	10			1
		Voem	has	an	incredibly	deep
P	and 1	Jark moo	d and)	has an	unhappy
anna an	abmosph	ere,				ΥŢ J

Examiner comment - low

The essay opens with immediate points about Owen's choices of 'unfamiliar language' and 'repetition', but these are not firmly linked to the opening idea about the 'Dark, deep setting'.

The essay then works through the poem and although ideas are picked out from their context, so little sense of developing the meaning of the poem emerges. Quotations are cited with some attempt at paraphrase, which shows some understanding of each phrase chosen, but does not show understanding of the poem as a whole. Occasional points are made on technique, such as the repetition of 'throbs', but without acknowledging the contexts of the words, the understanding shown is limited. This is confirmed by the suggestion that Owen is 'fraught' because of the war, when this is a poem written before the outbreak of war.

The opening of paragraphs with quotations rather than topic sentences demonstrates the essay's lack of cohesion and clarity of direction. There is little to connect the paragraphs to show development or connection. The limited appreciation and understanding of Owen's choices is exemplified by the opening of the penultimate paragraph which refers to 'a few similes and metaphors' used 'with good effect' with very little exemplification, references to context or suggestion of meaning.

The essay shows a limited surface knowledge of the set poem, while its construction lacks cohesion and development. Understanding of the poem as a whole is uncertain though there is some limited understanding of some of its individual features.

Total mark awarded = 7 out of 25

Section B: Prose Question 5a

June 2015 Question Paper 31 is available on Teacher Support Site at https://teachers.cie.org.uk

Example candidate response - high

5	0	M.M. "Indiais a middle"
		the importance of two view is forster's presentation of India.
		With box 2 3 -
		High-Indians impose order. Caves Por II
		An Or Comparts between muddle and mystery is antral Es some thank Indiais ~ muddle -> conflation of doporate enotitos novel & mystery > has an answer. chometerized by vortherbook mixed peneption 4 peneption in nord novel & mustin shar as an eved. choracteristica by waynestone mixed perception brays the charoches seal oth it -> 3 prominent Angle-Indraws > mysse order on the so chaos in order to seperate the muddle & Aziz 'everything ranged colders on Grebres' frour intersected at right angles Artdlow of bungalons is the net Locarcen bord' -> 'sslaced their hears' (abel) Lo low 'nothing in India is identified is Inging to lated detracts from it labels lotter in Solated their rears > mying to label detracts from it
		1) Fruituss -> Adela wants to know India but faits suggession that # bying to label = defeat.
		Cares -> Most significant & central to in norel.
		Canos -> Most significant & central tol in norel.
		- Adela cannot yet away form the mddle
		6 Parts -> lava 1 - veril a King 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 3 Parts -> feethral of 15th of Krithan > hectic & chapter / Good getting (Food Si love I Muddle is postitive Atomine to use the las God Solore S Muddle is postitire Lotinging to unearth the middle Wesn't more Gomen comot initian their own Ufort docord with.
and the second second		(Host doesn't white

The question of the attended 'muddle' - and its accompanying Ka ingoren's - is central in A Passage to Indiai (1924). As a novel which is characterised by confusion and misperception, the different ways in which the characters define the mudde of India is stgnificant in our understanding of the them, as for those who cannot accept the inherent ordefinate indeterminability of India are conformed by the mudde (for example Adela, the Anglo-holious, and to some extent Helding) - a conflation of disparite entities K that connot easily be seperated, while those with in possession of the ability to penetre 'the other'- like Godbole and Mrs Moorby definition be solved. Wet present forster's presentation of the 'middle' is most notable, however, in the Anglo-Indian altempt to impose order on it ; Adela's conhision in the caves; and the K fosteral of the birth of kristing in the novel's final part. Throughout the novel totaroo the reader is confronted by the attempts of the Anglo-Indians to impose order on what is fundament-K ally a chartic the country. This is clearly expressed in the arrangement of the the Chandrapore, whose roads there interend K, at right angles' and whose bungalons form a "gridlock". the laster detail representative of the net of that British colonial rule has thrown over India. In this way in can be seen that I the not in comprehension of the British can clearly be sen as toster suggest that the Anglo-Indians believe physical provenented, literal order in have will yield manononationder, when it is white finding more stabiliting, when in realing we see helto as innately opposed to structure, suggested in: 'we con't catch trains' in chapter IX of the norel. Moreover, the Anglo-Indian attempt to control the muddle that India is for them can be seen to extend the K beyond the physical show in their obsession with labellingte. The most prominant example of such behaviour is - cronicallydisplayed in Adela during the incident with the Nawab Bahadues - en Bird , and its bring then solace. that to the an chample of the an ability to of which prompting isst neering. Indeed, identifiable, a of the third unravel the the there that to the and categorise an crample of the an ability to of which prompting isst neering. Indeed, identifiable, a of the third unravel the that to the and categorise an crample of the an ability to of which prompting isst meeting. Indeed, identifiable; a of the third unravel the nd categorise an crample of the an ability to of which prompting isst neering. Indeed, identifiatele; a of the third unravel the an crample of the an ability to of which prompting ist neering. Indeed, identifiatele, a of the third unpared the an obility to of which prompting isst neering. Indeed, identifiatele, a of the Kind unravel the of which prompting ison neering. Indeed, idensificate, a of the Kind unravel the ist neering. Indeed, identificatole', a of the third unravel the of the Kind of the Kind unnavel the

of the third unravel the
of the third unravel the unravel the
the tarmfut for
/
nee in the Cares, orcsents arguably in the norelise forcehadeved ore from different the ladian another - the Indian quarter - re indirect style res, wherein each muir uniformity.
in precise and naked thing , no is Hop, leaving of the anost wring the most known - coupy trusts the importance r nome exactly an Indra rever at the start . the derivative of her that would seem to resonate better with the "mystery", while Adela remains confronted with Muddle until after her epiphanical revelation during the trials. Forester presents the muddle in the cures as not only friorrating, but anrihilating, 12	as all sound and meaning is reduced to "oreress" or 'ou-boum; out presenting arguably the true cont underlying conflict of the novel :

		that the unity they all the characters store for only exists in the regation of meaning - everything nears rothing - a concept that ultimated hills Ms moore, and seems truly only accepted by Crodbole, who courses the philosophis that all owners are committed by all perdo exponses the philosophy that all owners are committed by all people, regardless of good or ertl.
	k	White the new In spik of the decidedly regative connorations
		I the mudde in parts one and two, Forster stores presents it in a more possive light in the final part. There the chaose rature a and an area a	of the festival of the Kinden festival celebraring Krishnu's birth
	κ	in part three would artainly appear an instance of muddle;
	N	as forster choses the compliciting asse of the the orchestra and permosion with me "helessons hum of electricity, and the song
		" (Indeed, while meaning is regated in the caves, so too is meaning 	regated to some what in the passing, as the point of it - namely the small picture of god reflected in a siner spoon is withmatchy stocured by the fishirities. However -rother than see finding horror in this fact - the Hindus revel in the celebration of "oneness", stressed by the collective references to the the R	"crowd' and the masses' which are repeated monghour the first chapter of the last part. Moreover it is advalate that Gods Moreorer we see the epitome of the muddle in the phrase:
		"God si lore", to which the norrative asks : 'Is this the final newsage of India? - wherein the loss of all missicance la - i the of India? - wherein me loss of all omniscience through the interrogour organts the fullits of trying to define have, and the it is a question that cannot be answered by any of the character, and and attempt shall be made to do so would be to their detriment, just as men connor "initiate their own unity. They do but widen the diride.

To conclude, former the ambiguity surrounding the definition and presentation of the 'middle' is the inicial to our understanding of the novel, as India cannot be understood by categorisation or rationality, but most be accepted as independente.

Examiner comment - high

The essay opens with immediate address to the question; the 'muddle' is clearly in focus, with a consideration of various ways in which it may be understood and its importance to interpretation of the novel. The discussion is articulate and precise, while making careful discriminations before honing down to 'the Anglo-Indian attempt to impose order on' the muddle of India.

The consideration of the setting of Chandrapore is an appropriate development from the broader discussion and is supported by detailed quotations, with comment on them which develops the argument. This argument then moves naturally from the physical setting and uses the reference to the 'Green Bird' as a useful symbol of English attempts to rationalise and identify Indian experience. Secure references and selections are brought together from different parts of the novel to build the argument.

The Marabar Caves incident is rightly seen as a focus for this question and the novel. The essay does not concentrate on the events in the caves, but considers the incident from a narrative angle, looking at the effects of 'the subjectivity of free indirect style' in creating a narrative 'lacuna'. The argument here is precise and sophisticated, using such disparate areas of the novel as Adela's surname and her retraction at Aziz's trial.

Demonstrating assured structuring of argument, the essay then contrasts the perceptions made thus far by considering the more attractive version of the 'muddle' presented in the final section of the novel. Again the references are secure, with some pertinent quotations to source the points directly in the text.

This balance between the interpretations of 'muddle' is brought together in the conclusion, which considers the importance of such ambiguity. The essay shows extremely good detailed knowledge, arranged to support a pertinent, intelligent argument about the novel, which demonstrates finely judged understanding of Forster's narrative methods.

Total mark awarded = 23 out of 25

Example candidate response - middle

5	a	Forster uses the idea that India's a muddle' to set the basis for the misundopstanding that lade to the climax of the movel. This idea is also used to show how there tism has embraced this muddle or a form of spinituality. The extent to which
	p-	the muddle of India permeater the land is one of the reasons Anglo-Indian's and Indians are shown to be incompatibilitis inpatible.
		Forster suggests that the muddle affects the Christian thinking
	ρ.	of Anglo-Indians, providing yet another reason for their loss of faith and thus, racial segregation from the natures.
		The muddle of India is shown to an course misunderstanding landing to the conflict in the causes.
		Forster uses the muddle of India to explain the extent of spiritual Lewildement present in Hinduism. The readers are 	1	introduced to this fact in 'Car Temple' where we hear of the 1<
		the rebirth of Shin Linking, yet the pilgions themselves seen to be confused as to the state of this god. They believe that K	He is us not, is not, was yet he is their mother, forther and everyone. The celebrations themselves itself seek to increase their 'socred bewilderment'. They put 'a lump of butter on ĸ	[their] torehead[s] and let it slide down to their months before another Alindu motches it. They hit a pot with slicks an, allowing a mass of greasy rice and milk [the] pour[] onto their faces'. The reason for this excessive state of confusion among the thinks may be attributed to the fact that Handwism is the main religion of K	India and so if 'in par India, everything was placed wrong',
	ρ	then thinduism is also shown to embrace and incorporate this muddle into these religion. Thus, Forstor uses his the muddle of India to explain the reason for the confusion present in Hinduism.
	•	While the muddle of India is shown to enhance and
	P	characterize Hinduism, it is shown to have the opposite effect on

Example candidate response – middle, continued

	Concernation in the 2	1. 1977 F. 1	Christianity, highlighting the incompatibility between Aylo-Indians and K	Indians. We understand Mrs Moures disdain for the muddle seeds 51	of India when she simply states "I rather like mysteries but K	I hate muddles'. We then come to understand that she is Slowly losing taith in her religion. As she tries to convince Ronny
	Sec. Also	that 'God is Love', Fourter uses ellipsis frequently throughout
	U	her speech to show her indecision on the subject. The next time ana Taja	the readers hear of this idea, it is as 'God si Love'. India mart merika Sor	is shown to have taken Mrs Moore's words and twisted them into P	sumething even comical. The phrase never reverts back to "food is 8 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1	Love and we are reminded of this fact in For God si have Is this the final message of India?". Romy too is shown to be lacking in the area of spintuality as he only approved of
	K
- }	and a	religion was at the streptized stenlized public school brand . This
	с.	loss of faith is shown not at all understood by the Indians.
		When Fielding admits that he doesn't believe in God', Aziz and ÷	k	his friends are 'scandalized'. The readers are aware of the high opinion with which Azic held Islam, believing that It was 'more than a religion', and thamidullah begs the question is under the impression that 'morality also decline [5] with the decline in faith. The voired approaches to religion, Forster implies, that come about though the model e of India is one of the
Ξ.	K	reasons for the racial tension between the Anglu-Indons and the In-tions.
		Forster also uses the idea that "India's a muddle' to
	ρ	portray the different reactions to this muddle that the races have. Indans are shown to comply as accept the muddle while K	Anglo-Indian seek to unravel the mystery of India. All Anglo-Indian meeting have comething that is constant to them, the "National Arthen' is surg before and after in solemnity. However, Indian V	gethering have no turn or structure about them, as evident in the

Paper 3 – Poetry and Prose

Example candidate response - middle, continued

[1] [2010] STRADAR AND MARKED PROPERTY (2010)	CONTRACTOR OF A previously mention 'Gokul Ashtomi' festival. The Indians accept K	this contrision while the Aylo-Indians don't. On the expedition to the Marabar Caves, there is misundarstanding on the temain.
		Atiz and Adola are confused as to whether some mands are 'graves' or the 'breast of godden Porvati' and whether a black object was a 'cobro' or the branch of a 'tody palm'.
		While these muddles among, furtrate and confuse Adela, Aziz states them with simply without trying to come to a conclusion.
		When Aziz Adela admits to have made a mistake in accuring
	-	Aziz of insult', Fielding and her try to come to an understanding
	į.	of what conspired in the care whether it was the fault of "the guide for] one of that going of Pathans' to which Sadasan	Hamidullah hears and takes great offerre to the idea, believing that the English had 'not done with [Indian] yet'. Thus, Foster shows the acceptance among Indians and lack thereof 5	omony Anylo-Indians towards the muddle of India.
anender neuennen som som enger er s In conclusion Forstor was the idea of India being a me that Indig's a muddle to explain the racial divisions among Indians and Aylo-Indians in the way in PK	which Hindriven embracy the multile while Chintonity is deraded by it and the acceptance each group has towards deraded by it and the acceptance each group has truardy this muddle
Band	3	(15)
anteriorante de la constante d		(1:2) Competent K with some sound implicit U, P-relevant
		C - coherent

Examiner comment - middle

This essay takes a quite different approach to the question, clear from its opening paragraph. The initial overview interprets the question in racial and religious terms, stating that the muddle is 'embraced' by Hinduism but affects the Christians detrimentally. The point is picked up with the focus on the Hindu festival in Part 3 of the novel, though an opportunity is missed to show how language of the quotations represents the muddle in their paradoxes.

The essay moves clearly on to contrast Hinduism with Christianity, with reference to Mrs Moore's distinction between mysteries and muddles, and 'God is Love'. There is clear discussion of the lack of spirituality among the English, referring to Mrs Moore losing her faith, Ronny's lack of spirituality and Fielding's atheism. The candidate's argument attributes the muddle at least in part to the two races' differing attitudes to religion as a conclusion to this stage of the essay.

The essay continues to employ secure references when looking at the trip to the Marabar Caves in order to demonstrate the confused perceptions of Adela and Aziz, which is amplified in the muddle of what actually happens at the caves. Here not only reference to but examples of well-chosen quotations are also used to exemplify the argument.

This essay takes an individual approach to the question, interpreting in a personal way, which leads to the selection of a different range of references. However, those references are competently selected to support the candidate's argument. Some sound understanding is shown of Forster's development of the novel and his treatment of religious concerns in it.

Total mark awarded = 16 out of 25

Example candidate response - low

	- 11 - 1	in the second seco
Q5	(a)	Forster use 'muddle' as a motife throughout
	P	the novel. Forster present 'muddle 'as abstract
астанан ни не 1		ond does not have solid form.
	-110	Forster use 'muddle' to show the incompatibility
	V	of the Anglo- Indians and the natives in India.
unat mananeze	K	In the novel, the herds (the Anglo Indians) are being prejudiced towards the natives. The herd.
 de	919-0	may rules India due to the effect of colonialism 2.5	of Brinsh over India. Due to the colonialism, the
	V	herd are being prejudiced to show the superiority
		Forster use the effect of the colonialism to show to the readers that the Anglo-Inclians are N. S. S.	P	superior towards the notives.
	1 Forster use the superionity of the herd to show to the readers that the nonives are discriminates by the herds. This give the effect of the notives being inferior toward the herd. In addition, Forster once use Fielding to show that the muc ran arow bigger; this suggests that throughout the novel, the incompatibility of the natives and the anglo-Indians are more increasing instead of the anglo-Indians are more increasing "instead of P-		decreasing. This also succests that, in the novel, nsup	porter	nonives and the herd cannot be together.
		Forster also use 'muddle' as a part of nature. In P -		the novel, the element nature is considered as nsupp	worted	superior and older than religion. This suggests that religion in the novel is inferior toward the nature Not only that, nature to in the novel is personified by Forster to be 'alive'. For example, when Asia

٦ and Adela enter the Marabar Cave, the boulders in the cove are 'alive' while the peobles 'are are readily - I ready to be noticed by the characters.

	K
		This also suggests that nonire in 'A Passage to undered	oper	India considered as hostile, and secretly avil.
		Due to the 'muddle', Forster use echoes', Marabar
-		- Cav e
11		Forster use Marabar Cove and religion to present India. In the Marabar Cave, Forster use 'echoes'.
		'Echoes in the novel is the same as 'muddle'; x	it at considered as abstract. With 'echoes' being abstract, Forster use 'echoes' to higger contusion
	K	to the characters in the novel, Adela Quested and Mrs.
		Moore.
0		Due to "echoes" in Marabar Cave, Foister use Adelas charges against Aziz. This shows that the "echoes" in Marabar Cave of India causes Adela to become indevelo	rel	discriminate Aziz. Forster then use this ·	discrimination to show people in the herd's instinct Due to the herd's instruct, people in Indio are considered as 'criminal by heart'. This suggests that Forster use present the India as criminal and hospile.
		Also, due lo 'echoes', Forster also use 'echoes'
	K.	to develop the characterisation of Mrs. Moore.
		In the novel, due to 'echoes', Mrs. Moore lose faith her faith in Christianity. This suggests that, theta 1011-1101-	'echoes' in India can change the for belief of the Charaders.

K	Forster use 'muddle' to show the incompatibility of the natives and the herds. Other than 'muddle', Forster also use religions in India to show to the readers that religions cannot connect people.
	India in the novel have conflicts a nises between the Brahmans and the non-Brahmanser or conflicts K	that rises between Moslims and Hindus.
levely	ped
	This conclude that 'muddle' in India together with 'echoes' and retigion are uses by Forster to show that India is hospite. India able to higger 0	confusion due to echoes, it able does not able to connect people due to muddle and differences in religion.
	K K leveli

Examiner comment - low

The essay opens with a suggestion that the 'muddle' represents 'incompatibility' between the English colonisers and the Indians and shows a clear awareness of the colonial context. The discrimination and prejudice is asserted rather than demonstrated or argued, while the reference to Forster's use of Fielding is uncertain and is not exemplified.

The essay then considers a 'muddle' between nature and religion. Here there is more support, with a reference to Aziz and Adela at the Marabar Caves. While this refers to nature, however, there is little focus on religion and the conclusion is not supported.

There is greater success with the suggestion that the echoes within the cave cause confusion for the characters, resulting in Adela's accusation against Aziz. This is an appropriate and relevant point, though it is not developed far in the essay. There are also relevant references to Mrs Moore's confusion at the caves and her disillusionment with her Christian faith. The discussion of the caves is the most successful part of the essay, as the points are relevant and there is some use of references.

The essay shows some use of appropriate knowledge selected to answer the question, which is most successful when points are exemplified from the text. There is much assertion rather than argument and points are not developed. While there is some knowledge of character and plot, there is limited evidence of understanding of Forster's use of language, form and structure which shapes the characters and plot.

Total mark awarded = 7 out of 25

Question 5b

June 2015 Question Paper 31 is available on Teacher Support Site at https://teachers.cie.org.uk

Example candidate response - high

5	(6)	This score passage Forster uses this passage to beenplify the cultural, racial and Neugrous devisions that under whethe striving for personal connection in India, 12	flowever, forsta does also include striving for personal connection in India, However, Forster does also include elements of optimism as Fielding's however and grace seems emplematic of the runa ٥	of goodwill that Mrs Moore Calls for in  	The fext.
		In immediate tone of suspicionis established between Fielding and
	2. 	Ariz's friends in the mestion. Does Ariz's friends in the question, Over Mr Fielding think it's true? The acusatory И	Jone	fone of this interrogative suggests that Aziz's friends have an intrinsic mistruit of Fielding and the reader is inclined to refew this as based on race and culture.
	ļ.,	The use of formal language, Mr., also connotes an element of unfamiliarity,
	DI	it establishes that Fielding is a clear outsider in the within this circle of friends.
	Ra	The fact that Forster's also conveys an ampionity in which of Asiz's highde has inguired this. It seems linely that it is ampiguity in which of Aziz's friends has inguired this, it seems whely that it is Hamidullan but it isn't entirely clear, also implies that these separtments of mistrice
	1.	friends and illustrates how the empisient
CA	(P	Fielding subly forsta subry air ales the friends and illustrates how the omniscient Fielding subly Forster subly divides the group along ratial lines, as Fielding talks and then is questionned by an Indian. The language used by Aziz's todies and to pad all used the Asia's 1	many in any muge user of rides tends when discussing Indian and mployment also appears to re donintrinsic racial divide 1 CLEDESA ech Azie's friends and Tielding 4 excuse me again is it fair an Englishman ourpy one when indians are available. e conveys a divide blaween Intal hor and Englishmen, whilst the runs e allusion to race is already indicative of cultural and - racial KIn Rind iends can Thus, 100 ton (compartmen 10 in a similar The soil and this und through 11 Choke and suntax. 25 in also OUNA IS lang aective allusion to the as a sug "rulers even "gods" te as or , perhaps even accordents allusion This dominance in India seems to be impli 10 y of language to connect imply the n cin GIOUS reones exemplifies the fangles hat will eventually come to nau acel ion between Aziz and Fielding. in this quotation, the tone ain. nidullah is somewhat desnuisive ing, his then excuse me again projoundly ironic statement as The 'agent' implies an a subtle and impatience and frust rution with Fielding. Thus, this cultural nicety of 'excuse me can be said to do with the mond the

of the parcial divisions, by contrast, or ia. nlights them. Forster also impries autural div between vision hyperbole and western rationalism ulp. to a sentince C mest size and) complime 水 wounded their . The ator is ne on nich V with some sandoniusm injusea ises mund to under isic cultural socia WNO INTIO riends comeacross an routa 225 , as athe FORM as iau arae Cor 000 t nis 12 rily defined by G 0 21 Hower one onal nu a din sit between antitue a cloa and the no compl 0%. ras, which ne SI 4217 15 files eartwon aiscon hrase furth CS uppilage ging racial (HIA O 612 93 28 wou 00 aa a cente U Mi 1 erru COM lS ar ù trates how and (UL Aziz's Wil 18 rer rons de 10 eligious division i) also.

	an inprinsic quarty of Fielding's an inprinsic quarity of Fielding's relationship with Azis's mends. Forster conveys this division through lexical U	contrast, Manudullah's poetic claimol a beneficient provoidence contrast appear Tighter	antithetical with Fielding's cubdued tone and simple declarative, I don't blieve in God. The syntactical arrangement of Fielding's statement expresses him as being entirely separate from a belief in God, that again contrasts vasty with the Aziz's priends. Fielding's use of h	1º subdued negation, 'I don't', also seems characteristic of cold, western precision and contrasts with Mamidullan Language, "lengicent providence", which has opvious tiblical connetations yet also rereals a spirituality and eluberance in PS polysyllabic nature mat is antithetic to Fielding's reserved monosyllabism.
	Thus, it religion seins to accentuate, rather than mend divisions between P	Fielding and Aziz's procends. This capacity of religion to exace toute the divisions between Fielding and Aziz's friends is also illustrated in their reaction to Aziz's rev Fictiding's revolutions his a the ism 'A the constant of K	"I Lot a Light of all sea a attind the company his a their , 'A thy movement as of "I told you to' pussed around the company Forster" use of language conveys the uncompleted we want the station of unconjortable nature of this religious divide, the fact that there movements are fing' seems to imply they wish to it
l	The ying sectors to inder they wish to h

· · ·	a unoficed and thus connotes ideas of institutiveness in the aisregard for atheigh. The narrator also emphasizes This airision through the phrosal vert, passed round, which seems to connote asense
a an an ai		round' which seems to connote asense of unity in Aziz's friends, a sense of shared 2	opinion. This unity is rather perverse, within Aziz's friends there are twolf within Aziz's frends there are twolf
e sur sur an e		mashing and two hundus yet they 2	find some unity in their betilf mistruit
laana ja	а алы •2	of Fielding. Thus, Fielding's relationald with Aziz's friends is in come way
	K	with AZIZ'S fileres is in conversion
	N D	allegenical for now unity between E E	come dways implies excutst exclusion ia n	a muran	and division from offices. However, there is elements of 11111	10-05	optimism in Forster's presentation of this relationships Fielding aperus to bridge a gross racial and cultural d and		divides. This is evidenced in his notable avoidance of the subject of Rolifics, I'm out here personally Provide happing in the reading's allusion to the "personal" is pertinent, it connotes a separation from the it connotes a separation from the pritish institution and seems four R	as a subtre munitation to Aziz's friends to view him as such they are 4		too some getent responsive to fuis, He
h. e	3.300	caeighed T. However, despite his attempt to bredge divizions, this tang  	1	Fredoung's language and tone

Examiner comment - high

The essay's opening overview places the passage in context, considering the structure of the novel's central concerns while picking up on the characterisation of Fielding himself. The essay throughout is carefully focused on Forster and his craft as a writer. The interaction of the characters in the passage is seen within this approach to the question.

This is clear with the second paragraph's focus on the 'tone of suspicion' in the passage and how it is created. The candidate notes that the probing of Aziz's friends is 'accusatory' and that the formality of 'Mr' establishes Fielding as the outsider. Forster's structuring of the conversation 'along racial lines' is also noted, not only in the questions and answers, but also within individual questions, noting the antithesis between 'an Englishman' and 'Indians' for example. This very close analytical examination of language and structure to support the answer is the hallmark of a very successful response to a passage based question. A further example of this kind of detailed probing of the language is the comment on the implications of the use of the word 'occupy'.

There is a subtle understanding of the tone of the conversation with the discussion of Hamidullah's 'excuse me' and the suggestions of 'Indian hyperbole and western rationalism' revealed in both narrative and dialogue. Narrative point of view is an area often overlooked by candidates, but in this essay there is careful consideration of the effects of the 'omniscient narrator' and the suggestions of 'social satire'. The wider reference to Forster's Aspects of the Novel is made directly pertinent to the development of the argument.

The discussion of the different language choices on either side of the dialogue is detailed and subtle, noting that Hamidullah is 'poetic' while Fielding's tone is 'subdued'. These points are supported by both quotations and attention to syntactical structure. This part of the essay demonstrates not only fine understanding but also a personal, intelligent response to Forster's writing. This is apparent throughout the discussion of religion and is given a particular focus in the discussion of the 'tiny movement'.

Having carefully balanced various contrasting aspects of the passage throughout the essay, the candidate moves towards a form of resolution towards the end, signalled in the 'However'. By looking at Forster's use of Fielding to create a 'bridge' between the races, the essay again pays close attention to detail to support the point, considering how the inclusion of the word 'personally' separates Fielding from the 'British institution'.

This is a very well developed essay. It responds directly to the question, building the argument on a very close, analytical examination of the writing of the passage. This analysis often shows sophistication and subtlety. While discussing the passage in a focused way, the essay also makes pertinent references to the wider text and its central concerns.

Total mark awarded = 25 out of 25

Example candidate response - middle

5	Ь	The novel of Passage to India is a post-colonial, based in India in the time of the British Raj. The novel, by the author
	125	post-colonial based in India in the time
	~ 5	of the British Raj. The povel, by the author
		E. M Forster, focuses on the relationships 10 ···		between the Indians and the English in the town of Chandrapore. This extract emphasises P	their differences effectively as they are visiting their friend Aziz who is unwell at his home.
		Fielding who us fightigh and Aziz's india Fielding, who is English, and Aziz's India triends discuss politics and religioa and in torn, through Earster's writing the readers
9		torn, through Forster's writing, the readers gain a clearing understanding of their K
1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 - 1997 -	\bigcirc	relationship.
		Firstly, Forster presents fielding and Aziz's friends relationship through the sentence
1		atternos teracionamp anough the senance structure these characters are given. At the beginning of the extract there is a clear contrast between Fielding and Aziz's friends,
	ν	are are long generally using short of sentence.
	K	Aziz's friends generally using short a sentence: and predominantly asking questions where as Fielding is given longer, a more complex rieraing le given conger, a more complex sentences thus being able to elaborate more For instance, teach fiziz's friends ask many question such as Does Mr Fielding think it is true? and
		'And does morality not decline?' Due to this,
	u	the reader is able to sense the caution that Aziz's friends approach Fielding with as they are eager to learn more before opening up to him and consequently becoming friends. This could reflect the inequalities
	K	between the English and the Indians in Chandra-
,		Sore at the time and that although Aciz is their mutual friend, this does not subsequent

U/P result in their friendship. Forster also highlight this idea through Mic Moore and fielding's trends as when they first met (which was a resolt of Aziz) they felt rather outlow autward, showing U that friendship would occur naturally and could not be forced towever, at the end of this extract, Aziz's friends seem to become more comfortable in expressing their opinion towards Fielding as their sentence structore K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structors which Aziz's aptends approach fielding with. Furthermore, through forster's choice of diction which Aziz's aptended to the reader, Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that currently they are eager to impress field K/U for instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offer y then by stating that they 'Mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphacises the chances the indians have had to make since colonisatio this idea through Mic Moore and fielding's triends as when they first met (which was a resold of Aziz) they felt rather automain autward', showing U that friendship would occur naturally and could not be forced towever, at the end of this extract, Aziz's friends seem to become more comfortable in expressing their opinion towards Fielding as their sentence structore K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through Forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structors which Aziz's appendent approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the reader is able to observe the caution by which Aziz's appendent Aziz's friends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader. Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that currently they are eager to impress field K/U for instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offer by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphorises the chances as when they first met (which was a resolt of Aziz) they felt rather antward', showing U that friendship would occur naturally and could not be forced towever, at the end of this extract, Aziz's friends seem to become more comfortable in expressing their opinion towards Fielding as their sentence structure K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the caution by which Aziz's approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the relationship between Aziz's triends and fieldi is effectively portrayed to the reader. Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that currently they are eager to impress field K/U for instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offer by them by stating that they 'Mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a ich ocking out' which emphorises the chances Aziz) they felt rather walka awkward', showing U that friendship would occur naturally and could not be forced towever, at the end of this extract, Aziz's friends seem to become more comfortable in expressing their opinion towards Fielding as their sentence structore K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through Forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the caution by which Aziz's aptriends approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the relationship between Aziz's friends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader, Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing. that currently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offer p the the stating that they 'mean nothing personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphosises the chances U that friendship would occur naturally and could not be forced towever, at the end of this extract, Aziz's friends seem to become more comfortable in expressing their opinion cowards Fielding as their sentence structore K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through Forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the caution by which Ariz's aptriends approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction Q the relationship between Ariz's friends and fieldin is effectively portrayed to the reader, Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that currently they are eager to impress Field K/U for instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offer by them by stating that they mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphacises the chances could not be forced towever, at the end of this extract, Aziz's friends seem to become more comfortable in expressing their opinion towards Fielding as their sentence structore K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through Forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the caution by which Aziz's aptriends approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the relationship between Aziz's friends and fieldi is effectively portrayed to the reader, Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing. that currently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offer by them by stating that they 'Mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasizes the chances this extract, Aziz's friends seem to become more comfortable in expressing their opinion towards Fielding as their sentence structore K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through Forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the caution by which Aziz's aptriends approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction the relationship between Aziz's triends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader. Aziz's Ariends are given a polite tone snowing that currently they are eager to impress Field K/U for instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offer by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphosises the chances more comfortable in expressing their opinion towards Fielding as their sentence structure K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through Forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the calition by which Acie's approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the relationship between Acie's friends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader. Acie's friends are given a polite tone showing that currently they are eager to impress Field K/U for instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offer by them by stating that they' mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a ichucking out which emphasises the chances towards Fielding as their sentence structore K/U begins to lengthen. Thus through Forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the educion by which Ariz's approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction Q the relationship between Ariz's triends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader. Ariz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that currently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offend by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasizes the chances K/U begins to lengthen. This through Forster using the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the caliton by which Aziz's approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the relationship between Aziz's triends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader. Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that currently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offen by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphorises the chances the technique of contrasting sentence structure the reader is able to observe the calition by which Ariz's approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the relationship between Ariz's triends and field is effectively portrayed to the reader. Ariz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that currently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offen by them by stating that they imean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphorises the chances the reader is able to observe the caution by which Ariz's approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the relationship between Ariz's triends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader. Ariz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that corrently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offend by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphorises the chances which Acie's approach fielding with. Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction of the relationship between Acie's triends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader, Acie's friends are given a polite tone snowing that corrently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offend by them by stating that they imean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasizes the chances Furthermore, through Forster's choice of diction P the relationship between Aziz's triends and fielding is effectively portrayed to the reader, Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that corrently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offend by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphosises the chances
P the relationship between Acit's friends and fieldi is effectively portrayed to the reader. Acit's friends are given a polite tone snowing that corrently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offen by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasises the chances is effectively portrayed to the reader, Aziz's friends are given a polite tone snowing that corrently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offen by them by stating that they 'Mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasises the chances friends are given a polite tone snowing that corrently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offend by them by stating that they 'Mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasises the chances that corrently they are eager to impress Field K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offend by them by stating that they 'Mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasises the chances K/U For instance, they repeat 'excuse the question' and they are eager to ensure fielding is not offend by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasises the chances they are eager to ensure fielding is not offen by them by stating that they 'mean nothing k personally'. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasises the chances k personally. Also they used English terms such a 'chucking out' which emphasises the chances K personally. Also they used English terms such a ichucking out which emphasises the chances chucking out which emphasises the chances the indians have had to make since colonisatio Obcode on the other hand, fielding does not seem to be marking the same effort as the indians as he states that "mast 'educate K and thoughtful people' were atheirts, which P could be considered an insult to the indians as most were either Masiems and Hindus and took religion very seriously. Therefore, it coul be considered that Fielding does not have the same desire to please as the others.

		From a psychoanalytical perspective, when Aziz's friend's ego may be more closer to their superego as they are doing what society tells them to do backt which is be polite and to no offend. This contrasts fielding who's ego is closer to his id as he is not acting 1 	as gourded as the others. Forster may have
	р	done this to create a parrier between fielding and Aziz's friends which consequently results in a difficult relationship. To conclude, Forster uses diction to show clearly how the parriers between the English and Indians are created, thus resulting in the relationship not being V	completely honest.
		Additionally, throughout this passage a number of themes are discussed such as religion Transferranting and approximation states	-	and politics which subsequently results a in the reader gaining a more defined view on their relationship, through Azizs friends discovering that Fielding '[does not] believe in discovering that Fielding '[does not] believe in God' and that 'nelcould not] tell [them] why England is here or whether she ought to be here' as it was 'beyond him'. Through Fielding a discussing such controversial topics Fielding a discussing such controversial topics that are recurring throughout the novel shows that it is common for the two nationality to face these issues and over come them. As K	this extract is from the first of three sections of the novel (the Mosque section) the reader can 0/0	stable choice Forster enables the reader to still T/Q	have hope in their relationship developing.
		and it signifies hope through other situations such as Moore's and Aziz's Ariendship and Adela leven as Moore rand Azir's Ariendship and Adela

Example candidate response – middle, continued

	(: 0	Quested requesting to see the 'real India'. So a incomentation	by forster placing this meeting and discussion
	1	in this section and the characters discussing hin	such controversial topics, the readers can
	Q	stice view the relationship as having potential To conclude, through forster using varying 0)-01- -		and contrasting sentence structure, his e bi	choice of diction for the characters and the topics that the characters discussed, 1212000000100	nachtentas	the me relationship vetween prizes friends and
*		Fielding can be viewed as cautious, slightly volatile and but also with hope . Forster's experience of visiting India before writing the
and the second second		novel clearly resulting in an effective
-		portray of their relationship and enables this passage to seem & realistic to the reader.
	B3	Clear C & K relevantly applied to Q with ~	same sound U a relevant, supported P.
2	þ	the poem on My Songs by the poet will pred owen effectively portrays the emotion that Q	is associated with writing poetry and how it can both act as means of releasing tension and but at the same time the cause a a contra a		of it. This poem by Owen deviates from K	his usual themes such as the horrors of war and the Loss of innocence yet it still portrays to the reader the suffering, during writte	n in	world war I, that he endured cas he fought), 1913	but not in a physical sense punctuation but not in a physical sense punctuation Firstly, through his varying paration a secondaria de la composición de la co		and by using both end-stopped lines and K	enjambement, owen presents the idea of poetry being a means of expressing a poetry being a means of expressing a wide range of emotions, ideas and themes.

		Through Owen using many commas, full an a		stops and semi-colons it presents to the р	reader that poetry has no limitations and that needs	MONE	it gives poets the freedom to express them-precisi		serves. This idea was particular relevent to suppo		wour poets such as Sassoon and ower as Suppo	V
		when at wor they worked had to abide by strict rules. This idea is developed in Owens
	V	poem Inspection where by the soldiers
	K	were closely observed by their afficers and procked that theorems checked that their any and greaked then been werther most for any dirt or blood as 'blood is dirt's Therefore, through Owen using a large variety of punctavation and ware margan second line struct he expresseds the idea of poetry giving freedom of expression and an escoupe from P	Feality.
in the second second		Furthermore, owen presents the idea of poetry being comforting through his use of a regularityme scheme. Owen deviates from KJU	his usual, as he requiarly uses, pararhyme to portray discomport, thus through using the ,	opposition opposite he creates a more р	relaxed atmosphere. This idea of poetry being a way to express emotion and feeling through his rnyme scheme is particularly 	effective in this poem. Although, it is constant
₽ ¹ ×	- -	throught at the end there is a small deviat
		This character From a psychoan acytical perspect na té na scangaganan na s	D	and applying freuds idea of trouma, the reader could assume that due to owen's time need	0	convincing support

Example candidate response – middle, continued

		and dangerous, he wanted to express this. In 0.1074,84100000000000000000000000000000000000		the poem The Letter where the soldier soldenly
))	K	the poem The Letter where the soldier soddenly exclaims 'I'm hit' and in the poem The Sentry where the sentry suddenly tumbles down the stairs, it could be assumed that authough poetry can comfort him, are soon nothing can remove those memories trom him. Therefore, Owen uses the rhyme scheme to effictively portray his idea.
		Additionally, through owen's diction and repetition, the idea the poetry causes pt frustration within the poet. Weretates webbit owen uses diction such as 'cry', 'tears' and K	'sobs' which effectively emphasises the struggle
	U	taced when the boards of thoughts hold nothing for [him] Also through repetiting the word throbs it also emphasises and brings attention to this idea. Therefore, this may be considered by some readers that it is the method psychological effect that the war has had on owen, but to others it may be P	viewed as the effects of love on his life.
		Therefore, through the use of diction and ••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••••	repetition, Owen's idea that poetry is a means of snowing emotion and feeling (also a theme in poems such as Music and Songs of songs) is effectively presented.
	an da sa karang salah jerang dan jerang	In conclusion, by owen varying from his usual technique of paramyme and by using *	ka a sa ka sa sa sa sa sa ka ka sa sa	particular diction and punctuation, owen effectively presents his ideas of poretry to the reader. application enables him to connect /		to the theme of emotion and teering that

Examiner comment - middle

The essay opens with an introduction to contextualise the extract, though in this case it is not very helpful, particularly with the confusion over the term post-colonial.

The candidate then focuses appropriately on the writing of the passage with attention to sentence structure, though initially these points are separated from the meaning of the extract. The focus is better when the shorter questions are quoted, with a suggestion of their effect on the reader's understanding. The wider comment about Mrs Moore is relevant, though coupled with a section on the set passage lacking focused quotation; the argument at this point drifts towards summary.

Though the essay would have been improved with greater development, the comments on the polite phrasing of the Indians' questions formed an important point, demonstrating understanding of Forster's methods of portraying the relationships between the men in the passage through dialogue. There is a similarly astute observation on Fielding's tactlessness in his assertion about atheism.

The section of the essay on 'themes' is less successful, as it is less focused on Forster's writing and the quotations are only used to illustrate points, missing opportunities for analysis. However, this section and the essay as a whole clearly shows a competent understanding of the novel and the central aspects of the set passage. There is some detailed quotation and comment, though a passage based response would be much more successful with a more consistent attention to the detail of the writing, with more quotation and more analysis used to develop the argument in response to the question. In this response the knowledge is better developed than the understanding of Forster's choices of language, form and structure.

Total mark awarded = 15 out of 25

Paper 3 – Poetry and Prose

Example candidate response - low

kample cano	idate response – low
5 b	One major theme in E.M. Forester's A Passage to India is the discussion of whether on Indian and an Englishman can be friends and consequently the found ship between the cherectors De Azie and Card Fill Dr. Aziz and Cyril Fielding is a major subplat in the novel. Forster uses this pessage from the in the power lorster uses this pesseres from the $\neg \neg$	nove to illustrate the relationship between Fielding
- R	and Azie as well as their interactions with other Indian characters.
	As a Friendship between an Indian and an Englishmin is all bet unhead of Forster must promt the relationship of Fielding and Aziz as P	optrating to the relationships of Fielding and other Indians Founder day this in this scene K u-	by chained the Tal all This is this scene whorial	by showing the Indiana asking Fielding every purpose	sort of controversic question while Aziz does pot take parts Syca Mohammad asks Fielding about his belief in the existence of Providence - God - and Hamidulleh follows this with esting about the decline of marchity in the west.
	While most of the Indians are more then hoppy to bomberd Fielding with all menners of questions, Acit does not, and rather is

Paper 3 – Poetry and Prose

Example candidate response - low, continued

	portrayed as "scendalized" by sema quastions. While Aziz and Fielding remain friends, many of Aziz's Indian friends are not as trusting of Fielding and the relationship amongst them primeins strained.
	Of course Forster must also portray Fielding as different then other Englishmen. This is shown in Fielding's attitudes bowerds many of the guestion, the Indians put forth to him such as the guestion?
U- awaveners of authorial purpose U- effect	Indians are available. Englishmen should eaupy one when Indians are available. Forester offers the usual P English response and then Fielding's answer that he is simply happy to be in India The fact that Fielding's answers and opinions ore so contrary to the typical English attribude shown in the novel allows Footer to begin to ease the tensions between Fielding and Arie's forends.
Chowacterisat	Forester presents the relationship between Fielding and Azie's friends as fluid and developing. Although they do not trust Fielding as Azie does yet, Forscher isouso this scene to show Fielding's contacty attitudes to the typical Englishman and stort to each this trust and respect of the Indians. Although for from friends, Forster seems determined to show that under the cypit circumstances Englishman and Indians an be triends.

Examiner comment - low

The opening of the essay contextualises the selected extract within the text and its central concerns, an appropriate way to begin the response to the question. The importance of Fielding's relationship with Aziz is recognised as a contrast with the difficulties of friendships between the English and the Indians.

The comments made on the questions asked of Fielding are general, described as 'controversial' but without close reference to the passage which could have demonstrated the challenge of the questions. Here the essay lapses into summary – "Syed Mohammad asks... Hamidullah follows...' – without direct textual support. It is acknowledged that Aziz is 'scandalized', but there is no comment on the significance or implications of this word. The essay argues that 'Forster must also portray Fielding as different than other Englishmen', though this is not supported. It is implied that Forster's narrative voice provides the contrast with Fielding's responses, but for credit, such points should be made explicitly.

The final paragraph is a general summary of points which have already been made, ending an insubstantial essay. As a response to a passage based question, it is very limited. Such questions demand close examination of the writing of the extract to show understanding of the writer's methods and language choices. It is a significant weakness that this essay contains only two quotations – one of a single word, plus a sentence. While the essay demonstrates some knowledge of the text, evidence of understanding of Forster's use in language, form and structure to shape meaning is very limited.

Total mark awarded = 7 out of 25

Cambridge International Examinations 1 Hills Road, Cambridge, CB1 2EU, United Kingdom tel: +44 1223 553554 fax: +44 1223 553558 email: info@cie.org.uk www.cie.org.uk

