Introduction

The main aim of this booklet is to exemplify standards for those teaching Cambridge International AS and A Level Literature in English (9695), and to show how different levels of candidates' performance relate to the subject's curriculum and assessment objectives.

In this booklet candidate responses have been chosen to exemplify a range of answers. Each response is accompanied by a brief commentary explaining the strengths and weaknesses of the answers.

For ease of reference the following format for each component has been adopted:

Each question is followed by an extract of the mark scheme used by examiners. This, in turn, is followed by examples of marked candidate responses, each with an examiner comment on performance. Comments are given to indicate where and why marks were awarded, and how additional marks could have been obtained. In this way, it is possible to understand what candidates have done to gain their marks and what they still have to do to improve their marks.

Past papers, Examiner Reports and other teacher support materials are available on Teacher Support at https://teachers.cie.org.uk

There are some changes to the format of mark schemes for examinations from 2016. Bands have been changed to Levels and level descriptors have been inverted so that the highest level is Level 6 and the lowest level is Level 1. New specimen mark schemes for examinations from 2016 are available on https://teachers.cie.org.uk

Assessment at a glance

A Cambridge International A Level qualification in Literature in English can be achieved either as a staged assessment over different examination series or in one examination series.

Once Advanced Subsidiary has been achieved, inform Cambridge if the candidate wishes to take the Advanced Level – this notification is not required in advance of achieving the AS qualification.

Advanced Subsidiary (AS) candidates take:

Mark scheme, all questions

Using the mark bands

Place the answer in a band first. Look for the "best fit" of the answer into a band. An answer needs to show evidence of most but not necessarily ALL of the qualities described in a band, in order to be placed in that band. Then award a mark for the relative position of the answer within the band.

Candidates may address the question in many different ways. Do not expect any particular focus or approach and do not penalise answers for leaving out a particular focus.

Reward what is there, showing what you are rewarding, in your comments.

Consider all strands and weigh up the performance as a whole in placing the answer in a band, then show that you have done so in the summative comment, e.g.

Sound K of texts, some evidence of U but mostly narrative, occasional evidence of P, mainly clear C.

Assessment Objectives:

- Ability to respond to texts in the three main forms (Prose, Poetry and Drama) of different types and from different cultures;
- Understanding of the ways in which writers' choices of form, structure and language shape meanings;
- Ability to produce informed independent opinions and judgements on literary texts;
- Ability to communicate clearly the knowledge, understanding and insight appropriate to literary study.

Each answer is marked out of 25, in accordance with the General Marking Criteria below.

Each band is divided into strands corresponding to the Assessment Objectives –Knowledge, Understanding, Personal Response, Communication.

Band 6 0-5

- K Evidence of some general knowledge of the text which may be narrative based and may contain errors, rarely relevant to the question and with little or no relevant quotation or selection from the text
- U There may be little or no evidence of understanding of form, structure and language, with some appropriate points made in response to the question. These will be limited and tend to be restricted to plot and characters the latter treated very much as "real" people.
- P There may be some signs of personal response, not developed into an argument and not fully supported from the text.
- Communication will be insecure. Expression may be weak with some breakdown in communication. Structure may be lacking: answers are likely to be partial, undeveloped, narrative commentary in approach; with the assertion of simple points rather than progressive lines of argument.

Answers to passage-based questions are likely to be seriously unbalanced, with an emphasis on narrative or paraphrase. Passages are likely to have been only partially understood and tentatively located contextually, with little coherent sense of the relationship between textual part and whole. There will be little or no mention or consideration of the literary features of the passage.

Band 5 6-9 Work of a basic standard

- K Evidence of some limited ability to use knowledge of the text to address the question, with occasional use of supporting references or quotation.
- U Evidence of some limited understanding of ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings.
- P Evidence of some personal response to the text but not fully supported.
- C Expression will be basically clear. There may be the occasional confused passage of writing. However, there will be no sustained loss of communication. There may be a simple structure to the answer with some evidence of an argument, which may lack coherence, with some repetition, assertion and relapse into narrative summary/paraphrase. There may be a tendency to drift from relevant discussion into material of tangential significance.

In answers to passage-based questions there will be some evidence of understanding of how part relates to whole. Treatment of the given extracts may well be sketchy or overlong and undiscriminating. Comment on the wider textual issues is likely to be general. There may be a lack of balance between passage and whole text. There will be some limited consideration of the literary features of the text.

Band 4 10–13 Solid work

- K Evidence of some ability to use relevant knowledge of the text to address the question.
- U Evidence of clear understanding of some ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings, which may be partial and restricted to the more obvious aspects of the text.
- P Evidence of personal response to the text, with the beginnings of a personal view or interpretation, relevant to the question and supported from the text.
- C Expression will be mostly clear and appropriate with a clear, simple structure to the answer. Argument will be basically coherent, and assertive in tone. There is likely to be some reliance on paraphrase and narrative summary. Articulates simple ideas with clarity but there may be some imprecision and clumsiness of expression in dealing with more complex concepts. There may be occasional obscurity in the presentation of ideas and responses.

In answers to passage-based questions, work may be lacking in balance of approach, with over-concentration on the given extracts and little attempt to explore the broader textual issues. Conversely some answers may be in effect general essays, with insufficient treatment of the passages. There may be evidence of limited ability to negotiate between parts of a text and its whole. There will be some consideration of the literary features of the text with analysis of the features mentioned likely to be partial or restricted.

Band 3 14-17 Competent work

- K Evidence of competence in selecting relevant knowledge of the text to address with some pertinent use of quotation and direct references.
- U Evidence of sound understanding of some aspects of ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings, with some analysis and appreciation of literary methods, effects, and contexts.
- P Evidence of personal response relevant to the question, supported from the text.
- C Expression will be clear and generally accurate. Structure will be sound material coherently organised with occasional insights. Candidates will express intelligent, straightforward ideas clearly, though there may be occasional loss of fluency with points not always strongly connected.

In answers to passage-based questions, work will cover both the passage and its relation to the whole text, and there will be some sense of a relationship between the text as a whole and its constituent parts. There will be competent appreciation of the effects of the literary features of the text and the analysis is supported by relevant examples from the passage.

Band 2 18–21 Proficient work

- K Evidence of proficiency in selecting relevant knowledge to address the question with precise and integrated direct references to the text and supporting quotation. There may be evidence of awareness of the contexts in which the literary works studied were written and understood.
- U Evidence of intelligent understanding of ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings, with analysis and appreciation of literary methods, effects and contexts.
- P Evidence of personal response to the texts, relevant to the question, supported from the text, some originality of thought, straightforward and vigorously articulated, perhaps, rather than penetrating and subtle.
- C Expression confident, with some complex ideas expressed with some fluency. Structure is sound. Literary arguments will be coherent, with progression of ideas through clearly linked paragraphs.

In answers to passage-based questions, work will show engagement with both the given extracts and the wider textual issues. There will be a confident relation of a part of the text to its whole. There will be a proficient appreciation of the effects of the literary features of the text supported by relevant examples from the passage and from the wider text where appropriate. There will be a good knowledge of the appropriate context of the extract or work.

Band 1 22–25 Very good work – do not reserve this band for the very best work you see but ensure you put scripts into this band which fulfil the requirements described below. There will always be some candidates who are at a standard over the top of the mark scheme.

- K Evidence of a very good ability to select relevant knowledge to address the question with effective use of references and quotation. There may be evidence of sensitive awareness of the contexts in which the literary works studied were written and understood.
- U Evidence of very good understanding of ways in which writers' choices of structure, form and language shape meanings with sustained analysis and sensitive appreciation of literary methods and effects and contexts, possibly including literary genres and conventions.
- P Personal response to texts will be perceptive, often freshly personal, fully supported with quotation, and may show originality in approach to and treatment of questions.
- C Candidates will express complex literary ideas and arguments with clarity and fluency. Answers will have a coherent structure, with logical progression and effectively linked paragraphs. Expression will be accomplished and appropriate.

In answers to passage-based questions, work will sustain an appropriate balance between critical appreciation of given extracts, based on detailed critical analysis, and consideration of the broader textual issues raised by the questions, and relate part of a text to its whole and vice versa in a seamless argument. There will be a very good appreciation of the effects of the literary features of the text, with detailed analysis supported by relevant examples from the passage and the wider text, where appropriate. There will be a very good knowledge of the appropriate context of the extract or work.

Examiner comment – high

This is a proficient answer that begins with a clear, chronological overview of what is to come. There is appreciation of the complexity of George and Martha's relationship and the exploration of the couple's evident enjoyment of many of the battles shows ('you married me for it') that the candidate is aware of the deeper and psychological levels of the action. Throughout, points are substantiated through relevant and brief quotations. As the essay progresses through the three acts (a slightly easy structure, though one perhaps implied by the question), there is discussion of how George begins to gain authority over Martha and this is clearly linked to specific moments. There is a slight tendency to narrate at times and this is one of the features that keeps the piece on the edge of the mark scheme band. Contexts (the brief reference to the American dream) are used only when relevant; more importantly, they are only used to support or help to develop the candidate's argument. The uneasy peace between the two at the end of the play is subtly treated. In order to achieve a higher mark, this essay would need a stronger sense of the text as a play and as something to be performed; more explicit reference to precise ways in which the playwright is using a variety of techniques to dramatize the changes would have been useful — it is interesting to note that the candidate never names Albee or talks about the writer, though matters of technique are implicitly discussed.

 imaginery son, the two characters decide to face their misserable reality and more on.

Examiner comment - middle

This is a concise and clear answer. There is secure knowledge of what goes on in the text. Arguments are usually supported and there is some development of ideas. The initial relationship between George and Martha is clearly understood, though there is not much textual support to confirm the candidate's insights. The role of Nick and Honey in disrupting the relationship is clearly analysed, and as the essay moves forward, it becomes increasingly text focused. The question is in view throughout. Although the structure of the piece is simple (mainly chronological) the candidate progresses through points with a clear sense of purpose. The answer is limited by its lack of discussion of form, structure and language, which means that the text is only implicitly seen as a constructed work of art. Communication is clear throughout. At times (the beginning of paragraph 3, for example) there is a slight tendency towards narrative summary.

There is clear knowledge of the text in this response, and some focus on the question. Points are often asserted. It is never demonstrated, for example, that George and Martha wish to be a normal couple or that they begin the play 'in a dream state'. There is some reference to detail and the response tracks the ways in which George starts to dominate and direct the relationship as the play progresses. There is little that is explicitly related to the writer's techniques, and the text is only implicitly thought of as a drama that might be performed on a stage. Communication is clear throughout, and there is a simple structure with some sense of an argument, though points are often made rather assertively. The 'with what effects' of the question is not really tackled in a coherent way.

The response begins with a strong sense of purpose by announcing a series of strategies that might be used for analysis. Although the arguments in paragraph two start with the slightly misguided discussion of capital letters and exclamation marks (this needed to be seen in terms of how it would be presented as stage emphasis), there is sensible discussion of what Honey contributes to the passage. Reference to stage directions throughout the piece shows awareness of how the passage is being shaped for an audience. As the focus moves onto George, there is careful analysis of how he very carefully shapes what is happening, by deliberately using pauses and substantiating detail ('the doorbell rang') in order to give his tale authenticity. At times, more examples could have been usefully given. Martha's reaction to the story is well captured through reference to both language and action. Throughout, expression is confident and there is coherent discussion that mounts a vigorously articulated discussion through a series of clearly linked paragraphs.

In the opening paragraphs, the candidate shows knowledge of the play's context, though this is not fully relevant to the question. There is also understanding of where the scene falls in the action and of the relationships between the central characters. The response takes some considerable time in getting to the passage and there is much general discussion that, whilst it shows knowledge and understanding, it is not closely related to the question that concerns 'this extract' not the play as a whole. Once the candidate moves onto the passage, there is useful discussion of aspects of the staging and of George's motivation at this point in the play. There is sensible discussion too, of language, of emphasis and pauses and of stage directions, which all show a willingness to see the text as something to be performed. At times, the chronological approach means that a more strategic view of the scene is sacrificed. Whilst communication is clear, the prolixity of the discussion undermines the strength of the discussion. However it is undoubtedly purposeful and clearly planned throughout.

The response deals with the events of the printed scene. There is knowledge and understanding of the relationship between the characters and some engagement with the detail of the extract. The candidate is not secure about terms such as 'figurative language'. Discussions of short sentence are relevant, though not fully illustrated. The point about exclamation marks needed to be considered in terms of a text that is being performed, not read. There are elements of repetition in the answer that disrupt the sense of a developing coherent argument. Some crucial parts of the scene — George's reference to the Catholic requiem Mass for example had not been understood. There was some sense of how dramatic tension builds up, though it is not quite clear what the candidate means by the 'false situation' at the beginning of the scene. There are the beginnings of a relevant and considered response here and the straightforward points made are usually clear, if somewhat assertive.

This is a clearly expressed and purposeful response. The candidate is very aware of all the reasons why Anne should dislike and distrust Richard and yet there is also understanding of how he works his charms upon her. Points are substantiated from text throughout, with close reference made to Anne's cursing of Richard and of the various sweet talking methods he uses to overcome her. There is clear understanding too, of how Richard is using Anne duplicitously or his political advantage so that, in their central encounter (Act 1, Scene 2), she is won and dismissed within a few lines. There is clear personal insight into how an audience is sucked into sheer enjoyment at Richard's bravado and magnetism. The response communicates insight with considerable succinctness and it begins to tackle the whole issue of why Anne should be a willing co-conspirator with Richard, despite her obvious dislike for him, thus showing a complex appreciation of Shakespeare's methods.

This response shows understanding of the relationship and of the various ways in which Richard manipulates Anne. There is, however, some tendency towards plot-telling in order to set up the discussion. Although there is implied understanding of how Richard works on Anne, there is not much text specific detail to back up the arguments. Some points are tendentious — it is clear and not a matter of speculation, for example — that Richard is indifferent to Anne, and an audience will be in no doubt about this. There is some explicit reference to authorial techniques through reference to dramatic irony. Towards the end, points are made in one-sentence paragraphs and this restricts development and also makes the argument about Lady Anne's character rather assertive. Ideas are not always fully connected. To move into the next band of the mark scheme, a much closer commentary on text and particular moments would be necessary. The response is relevant throughout.

There is clear knowledge of the events of the play and the characters here, and some acknowledgement of authorial methods through discussion of dramatic irony, though this tends to be asserted rather than demonstrated. Points about 'people you love hurting you' are not entirely relevant as it is clear that Richard and Anne are far from being in love with each other. The response is limited because of its lack of engagement with detail of language and only occasional use of supporting quotation. The point about dramatic irony is repeated and thus the response lacks a strong sense of having a range of things to talk about and a coherent and developing argument. There are some signs of personal response to the situation in which the characters find themselves. The topic is kept in view throughout, but the 'with what effects' of the question is never really addressed.

This is a confident response that shows proficient awareness of how Shakespeare is shaping the scene. The overall structure of contrast between Richard and Richmond is presented from the beginning and it provides a strategy and shape for the candidate's developing argument. The scene is clearly visualised by the candidate, and this suggests a clear sense of the play as something to be performed. Contexts are briefly, but relevantly, introduced. Discussion of the supernatural is carefully introduced and exploited in order to demonstrate how Richard's past is catching up with him by this point in the play. The ghosts' use of repetition is clearly analysed as a sign of Richard's inner torment and of Richmond's ability to have the sleep of the innocent. Discussion of the imagery shows a willingness to engage closely with the language of the passage. There is useful reference to other moments in the play. Although the response is undoubtedly proficient, there is some loss of focus on the passage towards the end.

3	P)	In this passage, Richard is surrounded by those he has wronged through murder and deceit. As they speak to Richard and to his adversary, Richmond, cortain things are
	-	Said that are meant to Transfiste Richard's guilty conscience, asses especially with the Lelp of repetition and personal examples,
		Firstly, it is the repetition in each of the ghosts' addresses that make for a particularly dramatic and quilt-conjuring scene. It begins with the ghost of Prince Edward who cries out, "Let me six heavy on they soul
	*	to-morrow!" The young prince wants to be a burden in Richard's mind as he rides into battle. He wonts Richard to be slowed down by the weight of his evil actions. This materialization of Richard's actions in the form of curses
4		is a sort of vengeance for the ghosts; they wish for him to fail. Essentially, for this reason the world of "sitting heavy on thy soul" are repeated in almost all of the ghosts addresses, whether in those except words or slightly altered. It is easy to see the Irama in this scene by ficturing the ghosts' words as a chant, a rising one That builts into a perting of Kichard's conscipnce, each ghost posting him at bringing forth their menon in his mind, bringing torth the weight he must now carry into battle.
		of hichard with the words, " are despair and die!" This is of Michard with the words, the despair and die! This is also a sort of curse, an act of vergeanse that iss is essentially condenns Richard to be filled only with pain and then to die. These words contribute to the chant and to the building dramatization of Richard's conscience. Repetition is a powerful tool that Shallespeare utilized in this passage for the purpose of bringing about لــــــا	· ·	a certain mood of dork reflection,

	Additionally, the aspect of personalization in each of the ghosts' addressess is effective in and addressess is toying with Richard's conscience. Each ghost recites the place they were killed by so state the
	The by Richards Edward of Tewksburg, Henry I at the Touc, the young princes in the tower, and so on. The ghosts want the image of their death ingrained in Bichard's mind. They want him to remember them specifically, $ to hold the actual weight of his sins. Some of the ghosts recite the way in which they were killed, adding all the more to Richard's guilt.
(*)	One more aspect of the Scene is tremendously
	important to the inducing of a guilty conscience.
	Next to each ghost's cursing of Richard, there is a praising of Richmond. They wish Richard the worst just before wishing RECHMOND the bost. The ghosts call him conqueror, they offer their help, and ask for him to fight at their behalf. Thore is something to be said of fighting on one's nown turfo Richmond had so many backing him while Bichard had little to be said of fighting on one's own turfor Richmon's had so many backing him while Richard had little to none. In this way the glass ghosts' allresses were wer incredibly effective in dramatasizing a guilty conscience that would eventually lead to Richard's Failure.

Examiner comment - middle

The response shows a sound understanding of the situation at this point in the play, and the discussion is relevant throughout. The use of repetition by the ghosts is usefully analysed as an externalised means of characterising Richard's increasing guilt. Personal response comes through clearly when the candidate talks about the ghosts' words as a chant. Parallels made between each of the ghosts also help demonstrate Richard's increasing sense of despair, though there could have been more specific, detailed discussion to back up the points. The contrast between Richard, a crucial part of how guilt is set against innocence in the scene was not considered with reference to detail, despite being a strong and obvious element of the printed passage. Throughout, the discussion was coherent and clearly expressed and it avoids both paraphrase and narrative summary.

		come to hownt hem. The fers ahost &
		the young Prence Edward, son of Henry the sxeth, cursing Rechard for takeng away his youth at I Few th sbury and ending hes curse with "despair, therefore and dre!"
		thes is repeated throughout the curse's of the ghosts ussetting hechard.
		Then enters the ghost of Clarence whom Rechard heered two theefs to Kell hem and drown hes body en whene, we See this when Clarence say's Clarence has pety on hemself for haveng beleeveng
		in Rechard and thenking he has changed for the better but he has fust proven to all the ghost's he & a "vellan".

	Lord Hastings who helped Richard get his thrown crown tells hem "Bloody and guilty, guety awake, And my a bloody battle end thy guety awake, And in a bloody battle end thy days!" these is foreshadowing how Rechard is going to die and how the ruling of thes "uellan" is going to dee a horrible death.
	The ghosts of the two young Prences, who are the rephew's of Rechard, curse hem and hope the feels heavy at heart his heart well be weeghed clown for Kelling hes nephero's for it is the cur all these curses with that well give him encloses sleep and make hen tred during the buffle.
	The ghosts of Lady Anne, his wife who had never had a day's of sleep, sence he helled her father and husband during war
	It was Rechard that manepulated her ent p marryeng her, with his foul les
- 1	and toxec word's, that lead her to her death.
	All these ghost's Shakespeare has created is to freghtened Rechard and to also prove that Queen Margaret's prophecies are coming true "sleepless neight's" go that he well fail and dre . But the that upsat Rechmond, have been ouraging, attest he is seen house of lancaster together, and end the war that es happening.

Shakespeare use's "despair, therefore, and dre!" to emphasise and create a conscrence wethen Archard, sence "vellous" aren't seen to have a heart or a conscrence and et is contenually repeated at the end of every curse to wheel so that he wakes up on the day of battle to feel guelty, ashamed and scared that the now the "whote boar" who is not ennocent is gopna to get what he deserves.

Examiner comment - low

There is knowledge of the play and the situation at this particular moment in the answer. The response is chronological in its approach and therefore perhaps lacks an overall strategic grasp of what is going on. There is also a tendency towards plot narration and summary throughout. Points about repetition of phrases by ghost after ghost are soundly made, and references to the curses elsewhere in the play are relevant to the current discussion. There is no mention of how Richard's guilt is, in part, evoked through a contrast with Richmond, who lies tranquilly asleep on the other side of the stage. A more explicit discussion of authorial techniques would have helped to raise the response to the next level in the mark scheme. There is a simple structure to this response and the question is in view throughout, thus placing it high in the band awarded.
