PETER SHAFFER: Equus

1 Either (a) 'Dalton: ... In my opinion the boy should be in prison. Not in a hospital at the tax-payers' expense.'

To what extent, and in what ways, does Shaffer's presentation of modern society help to create sympathy for Alan and his actions?

Or (b) With close reference to the language and action of this extract, discuss the presentation of Frank's view of his son.

FRANK: As I came along the passage I saw the door of his bedroom was ajar. I'm sure he didn't know it was. From inside I heard the sound of this chanting. DYSART: Chanting? FRANK: Like the Bible. One of those lists his mother's always 5 reading to him. DYSART: What kind of list? FRANK: Those Begats. So-and-so begat, you know. Genealogy. DYSART: Can you remember what Alan's list sounded like? FRANK: Well, the sort of thing. I stood there absolutely astonished. 10 The first word I heard was ... ALAN [rising and chanting]: Prince! DYSART: Prince? FRANK: Prince begat Prince. That sort of nonsense. [Alan moves slowly to the centre of the circle, 15 downstage.] ALAN: And Prance begat Prankus! And Prankus begat Flankus! I looked through the door, and he was standing in FRANK: the moonlight in his pyjamas, right in front of that big photograph. 20 DYSART: The horse with the huge eyes? FRANK: Right. ALAN: Flankus begat Spankus. And Spankus begat Spunkus the Great, who lived three score years! FRANK: It was all like that. I can't remember the exact names, of 25 course. Then suddenly he knelt down. DYSART: In front of the photograph? FRANK: Yes. Right there at the foot of his bed. ALAN [kneeling]: And Legwus begat Neckwus. And Neckwus begat Fleckwus, the King of Spit. And Fleckwus spoke out of his 30 chinkle-chankle! [He bows himself to the ground.] DYSART: What? FRANK: I'm sure that was the word. I've never forgotten it. Chinklechankle. 35 [Alan raises his head and extends his hands up in ALAN: And he said 'Behold – I give you Equus, my only begotten son!' DYSART: Equus? 40 FRANK: Yes. No doubt of that. He repeated that word several times. 'Equus my only begotten son.' ALAN [reverently]: Ek ... wus!

DYSART [suddenly understanding: almost 'aside']: Ek ... Ek ...

FRANK [embarrassed]: And then	45
DYSART: Yes: what?
FRANK: He took a piece of string out of his pocket. Mad	le up into a noose. And put it in his mouth.
[ALAN bridles himself with invisible string, ar back.]	nd pulls it 50
And then with his other hand he picked up a co	at hanger.
A wooden coat hanger, and – and –
DYSART: Began to beat himself?
[ALAN, in mime, begins to thrash himself, ind strokes in speed and viciousness. Pause.]	creasing the 55
FRANK: You see why I couldn't tell his mother Religio	on.
Religion's at the bottom of all this!
DYSART: What did you do?
FRANK: Nothing. I coughed - and went back downstairs	s. 60
[The boy starts guiltily – tears the string from – and scrambles back to bed.]
Act	1, Scene 14

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Winter's Tale

2 Either (a) Discuss the significance of the contrasts Shakespeare creates between the worlds of Sicilia and Bohemia in The Winter's Tale.

Or (b) With close attention to detail from this passage, discuss Shakespeare's presentation of Hermione at this point in the play.

HERMIONE:	Since what I am to say must be but that Which contradicts my accusation, and
	The testimony on my part no other
	But what comes from myself, it shall scarce boot me	E
	To say 'Not guilty'. Mine integrity	5
	Being counted falsehood shall, as I express it, Be so receiv'd. But thus – if pow'rs divine
	Behold our human actions, as they do,
	I doubt not then but innocence shall make
	False accusation blush, and tyranny	10
	Tremble at patience. You, my lord, best know –	. •
	Who least will seem to do so – my past life
	Hath been as continent, as chaste, as true,
	As I am now unhappy; which is more
	Than history can pattern, though devis'd	15
	And play'd to take spectators; for behold me –
	A fellow of the royal bed, which owe
	A moiety of the throne, a great king's daughter,
	The mother to a hopeful prince – here standing
	To prate and talk for life and honour fore	20
	Who please to come and hear. For life, I prize it
	As I weigh grief, which I would spare; for honour,
	'Tis a derivative from me to mine,
	And only that I stand for I appeal	25
	To your own conscience, sir, before Polixenes Came to your court, how I was in your grace,	25
	How merited to be so; since he came,
	With what encounter so uncurrent I
	Have strain'd t' appear thus; if one jot beyond
	The bound of honour, or in act or will	30
	That way inclining, hard'ned be the hearts	30
	Of all that hear me, and my near'st of kin
	Cry fie upon my grave!
LEONTES:	I ne'er heard yet
	That any of these bolder vices wanted	35
	Less impudence to gainsay what they did
	Than to perform it first.
HERMIONE:	9 .
	Though 'tis a saying, sir, not due to me.
LEONTES:	You will not own it.	40

HERMIONE:	More than mistress of
	Which comes to me in name of fault, I must not
	At all acknowledge. For Polixenes,
	With whom I am accus'd, I do confess
	I lov'd him as in honour he requir'd;	45
	With such a kind of love as might become
	A lady like me; with a love even such, So and no other, as yourself commanded;
	Which not to have done, I think had been in me
	Both disobedience and ingratitude	50
	To you and toward your friend; whose love had spoke,
	Even since it could speak, from an infant, freely,
	That it was yours. Now for conspiracy:
	I know not how it tastes, though it be dish'd
	For me to try how; all I know of it	55
	Is that Camillo was an honest man;
	And why he left your court, the gods themselves,
LEONTES:	Wotting no more than I, are ignorant.
LEONTES.	You knew of his departure, as you know What you have underta'en to do in's absence.	60
HERMIONE:	·	00
	You speak a language that I understand not.
	My life stands in the level of your dreams,
	Which I'll lay down.

Act 3, Scene 2

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: Henry IV, Part 1

3 Either (a) Discuss the significance of humour to the play as a whole.

Or (b) With close reference to the passage below, discuss Shakespeare's presentation of the relationship between the king and the rebels at this point in the play.

London. The palace.

Enter the KING, NORTHUMBERLAND, WORCESTER, HOTSPUR,

SIR WALTER BLUNT, with Others.

KING: My blood hath been too cold and temperate,

> Unapt to stir at these indignities, And you have found me; for accordingly You tread upon my patience. But be sure I will from henceforth rather be myself, Mighty and to be fear'd, than my condition,

Which hath been smooth as oil, soft as young down, 10

And therefore lost that title of respect

Which the proud soul ne'er pays but to the proud.

WORCESTER: Our house, my sovereign liege, little deserves The scourge of greatness to be us'd on it -

And that same greatness too which our own hands

Have holp to make so portly.

NORTHUMBERLAND: My lord -

KING: Worcester, get thee gone; for I do see

Danger and disobedience in thine eye.

20 O, sir, your presence is too bold and peremptory.

And majesty might never yet endure The moody frontier of a servant brow.

You have good leave to leave us; when we need Your use and counsel, we shall send for you.

> [Exit WORCESTER] 25

You were about to speak.

NORTHUMBERLAND: Yea, my good lord.

Those prisoners in your Highness' name demanded,

Which Harry Percy here at Holmedon took,

Were, as he says, not with such strength denied

As is delivered to your Majesty. Either envy, therefore, or misprision Is guilty of this fault, and not my son.

HOTSPUR: My liege, I did deny no prisoners.

> But I remember when the fight was done, 35 When I was dry with rage and extreme toil,

Breathless and faint, leaning upon my sword, Came there a certain lord, neat, and trimly dress'd, Fresh as a bridegroom, and his chin new reap'd Show'd like a stubble-land at harvest-home.

40

He was perfumed like a milliner,

And 'twixt his finger and his thumb he held A pouncet-box, which ever and anon He gave his nose and took't away again; Who therewith angry, when it next came there,

Took it in snuff - and still he smil'd and talk'd -

And as the soldiers bore dead bodies by. He call'd them untaught knaves, unmannerly,

To bring a slovenly unhandsome corse
Betwixt the wind and his nobility.

With many holiday and lady terms
He questioned me: amongst the rest, demanded
My prisoners in your Majesty's behalf.

Act 1, Scene 3

TOM STOPPARD: Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead

- 4 Either (a) Discuss Stoppard's presentation of the Danish royal court in Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead.
 - Or (b) With close reference to the passage below, show how Ros and Guil attempt to come to terms with the increasing chaos they find around them.

GUIL: We say – Your majesty, we have arrived! Content removed due to copyright restrictions

ROS: But what's the point? Act 3

TENNESSEE WILLIAMS: A Streetcar Named Desire

5 Either (a) 'Blanche: I don't tell the truth. I tell what ought to be the truth. And if that is sinful, then let me be damned for it'.

Discuss the dramatic importance to the play of Blanche's lies.

Or (b) With close reference to the passage below, discuss Williams's presentation of clashing values and expectations at this point in the play.

BLANCHE: I don't understand you. [STELLA turns toward her.] I don't understand your indifference. Is this a Chinese philosophy you've – cultivated?

Content removed due to copyright restrictions.

STELLA: I beg your pardon! Scene 4

OSCAR WILDE: The Importance of Being Earnest

6 Either (a) 'Gwendolen: The home seems to me to be the proper sphere for the man.'

How, and with what effect, does Wilde satirize manliness and manly behaviour in The Importance of Being Earnest?

Or (b) With close reference to detail in the following passage, discuss Wilde's presentation of romantic love at this point in the play.

CECILY: Uncle Jack would be very much annoyed if he knew you were staying on till next week, at the same hour. ALGERNON: Oh, I don't care about Jack. I don't care for anybody in the whole world but you. I love you, Cecily. You will marry me, won't you? 5 CECILY: You silly boy! Of course. Why, we have been engaged for the last three months. ALGERNON: For the last three months? CECILY: Yes, it will be exactly three months on Thursday. ALGERNON: But how did we become engaged? 10 Well, ever since dear Uncle Jack first confessed to us CECILY: that he had a younger brother who was very wicked and bad, you of course have formed the chief topic of conversation between myself and Miss Prism. And of course a man who is much talked about is always very 15 attractive. One feels there must be something in him, after all. I daresay it was foolish of me, but I fell in love with you, Ernest. ALGERNON: Darling. And when was the engagement actually settled? 20 CECILY: On the 14th of February last. Worn out by your entire ignorance of my existence, I determined to end the matter one way or the other, and after a long struggle with myself I accepted you under this dear old tree here. The next day I bought this little ring in your name, 25 and this is the little bangle with the true lover's knot I promised you always to wear. ALGERNON: Did I give you this? It's very pretty, isn't it? Yes, you've wonderfully good taste, Ernest. It's the CECILY: excuse I've always given for your leading such a bad life. 30 And this is the box in which I keep all your dear letters. [Kneels at table, opens box, and produces letters tied up with blue ribbon.] ALGERNON: My letters! But, my own sweet Cecily, I have never written you any letters. 35 CECILY: You need hardly remind me of that, Ernest. I remember only too well that I was forced to write your letters for you. I wrote always three times a week, and sometimes oftener. ALGERNON: Oh, do let me read them, Cecily? 40 CECILY: Oh, I couldn't possibly. They would make you far too conceited. [Replaces box.] The three you wrote me after I had broken off the engagement are so beautiful, and so badly spelled, that even now I can hardly read them without crying a little.

45

ALGERNON:	But was our engagement ever broken off?
CECILY:	Of course it was. On the 22nd of last March. You can see the entry if you like. [Shows diary.] 'Today I broke off my engagement with Ernest. I feel it is better to do so. The weather still continues charming.'	50
ALGERNON:	But why on earth did you break it off? What had I done?
	I had done nothing at all. Cecily, I am very much hurt indeed to hear you broke it off. Particularly when the weather was so charming.
CECILY:	It would hardly have been a really serious engagement	55
	if it hadn't been broken off at least once. But I forgave you before the week was out.
ALGERNON	[crossing to her, and kneeling]: What a perfect angel
	you are, Cecily.
CECILY:	You dear romantic boy.	60
