Paper 3 Language Analysis

March 2021

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 50

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the March 2021 series for most Cambridge IGCSE™, Cambridge International A and AS Level components and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 13 printed pages.

PUBLISHEDGeneric Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptors for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

PUBLISHEDEnglish & Media subject specific general marking principles*(To be read in conjunction with the Generic Marking Principles (and requiring further guidance on how to place marks within levels))*Components using level descriptors:

- We use level descriptors as a guide to broad understanding of the qualities normally expected of, or typical of, work in a level.
- Level descriptors are a means of general guidance, and should not be interpreted as hurdle statements.
- Where indicative content notes are supplied for a question, these are not a prescription of required content, and must not be treated as such. Alternative correct points and unexpected answers in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the knowledge and skills demonstrated.
- While we may have legitimate expectations as to the ground most answers may occupy, we must at all times be prepared to meet candidates on their chosen ground, provided it is relevant ground (e.g. clearly related to and derived from a relevant passage/text and meeting the mark scheme requirements for the question).

English Language specific marking instructions:AO1 Read and demonstrate understanding of a wide variety of texts. (Understanding)

- Marks should be awarded for the accuracy of the candidate's understanding of the text and its features, not for any analysis of them which is recognised under AO3.
- Where comparison is required, marks should be awarded for the candidate's recognition of similarities and differences between the texts and their features, not for any consequent analysis.
- When awarding a 'best-fit' mark within a Level for each AO, consider each bullet point equally.

AO2 Write effectively, creatively, accurately and appropriately, for a range of audiences and purposes. (Writing)

- Marks should be awarded equally on the basis of the level of the candidate's written expression (range of features used and accuracy) and the development of their writing (its organisation and relevance to task and audience).
- When awarding a 'best-fit' mark within a Level for each AO, consider each bullet point equally.

AO4: Demonstrate understanding of linguistic issues, concepts, methods and approaches. (Conceptualisation)

- Marks should be awarded equally on the basis of the level of the candidate's understanding of the relevant issues, concepts, methods and approaches represented both in the text(s) and in their wider studies.
- When awarding a 'best-fit' mark within a Level for each AO, consider each bullet point equally.

AO5: Analyse and synthesise language data from a variety of sources. (Data handling)

- Marks should be awarded equally on the basis of the level of the candidate's selection, analysis and synthesis of language data.
- When awarding a 'best-fit' mark within a Level for each AO, consider each bullet point equally.

Higher marks should be awarded where candidates identify patterns and offer thoughtful and plausible explanations for the features they are discussing.

Weaker answers may spot features or describe individual cases of language change without reference to broader considerations or examples.

Section A: Language change

Question	Answer	Marks
1	Read Texts A, B and C. Analyse how Text A exemplifies the various ways in which the English language has changed over time. In your answer, you should refer to specific details from Texts A, B and C, as well as to ideas and examples from your wider study of language change. Mark according to the levels of response marking criteria in Table A. Additional guidance: The comments below are illustrative and are not intended to be exhaustive. Candidates may make other valid comments that should be credited. Candidates may organise their response in any appropriate way. They are not required to focus on lexis, grammar and syntax, orthography and graphology in separate sections. Responses might feature the following: Lexis <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There is a range of gardening lexis used. Much of this lexis is still in use today. However, the noun Colly-flower would be written without a hyphen by modern writers. This reflects the tendency over time for compound words to begin by being written with a space, then to be hyphenated, then written solidly without a hyphen. • The phrase a Shower of Rain today would be shortened to ‘a rainshower’, reflecting the coinage over time of more concise lexis. • Peafe is an archaic form used for modern ‘peas’. (Pea (singular) is a back formation from the Middle English pease (taken as plural)). • The noun Plantations seems to have undergone some semantic narrowing and would now be likely to be used to refer to larger farms or settlements than is implied in this text. This is reflected in the collocations listed in Text B, taken from the BNC. Similarly, transplant is used in the text to mean ‘to move plants’, in accordance with the origins of this word from Latin (‘trans’ meaning ‘across’ or ‘beyond’). As Text B shows, this verb also seems to have undergone lexical broadening as in modern usage it may also be associated with the surgical replacement of human organs or tissues which, as a medical procedure, has become increasingly common since the 1950s. • The expression increafe in bignejs may today be replaced with ‘increase in size’ as ‘bigness’ is non-standard. Likewise, in the expression Plant ... for increafe, increase would be likely to be replaced with ‘growth’ today. 	25

Question	Answer	Marks
1	Grammar <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There is wide use of imperative sentences which accord with the purpose of this text. • There are some differences in sentence construction as in the following example: Take up thofe Colly-flower Plants which begin to flower, tye their leaves together, and bury their roots and ftalks in Sand in a Cellar, or fome cool place, the Flowers will increafe in bignejs and remain good two or three months. In modern English, the comma before ‘the flowers’ would not be sufficient to punctuate this construction since the structure that follows this comma is a complete clause in itself. • The form Now [...] may be planted the ... is used, which sounds formal today, as does the construction for being planted a convenient ... they are ... In the latter, the preposition for is used to show the reason or cause. Although this is still a Standard use, ‘because’ or ‘as’ may be more likely to be used by modern writers. Orthography <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • There is some use of an apostrophe of elision to mark the past tense in words such as uncover’d and decay’d. • A long ‘j’ is used at the beginning of some words (E.g. fome) or middle of words, where in the modern day we would place an ‘s’. It tends not to be used at the start of common nouns where instead a capital ‘S’ is used, or at the end of words. This reflects a change in fashion brought about with the development of printing typefaces. Similarly, an ‘e’ is added to the end of ‘peas’. • Colly-flower has undergone some change. It is thought that the Latin ‘caulis’ was borrowed into the Germanic ‘cole’ (for ‘cabbage’) and then re-Latinised in the eighteenth century. • The spellings of Hony-suckle, tye, sellery, sallad, and artichoaks may reflect issues to do with pronunciation or standardisation of spelling. Hony uses the Middle English spelling. Graphology <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Capitals are used to start many names of common nouns (e.g. Spring Carrots), which today would not be capitalised, though this convention is still apparent in modern German, a language which shares common roots with English. • The first word of each entry is also capitalised in its entirety.

Section B: Child language acquisition

Question	Answer	Marks
2	Read the following text which is a transcription of a conversation between Kaylee (age 2 years) and her mother. They are at home. Kaylee is playing with a balloon, which has a long string attached to it and a bracelet at the end to go over her hand. Analyse ways in which Kaylee and her mother are using language in this conversation. In your answer you should refer to specific details from the transcription as well as to ideas and examples from your wider study of child language acquisition. Mark according to the levels of response marking criteria in Table B. Additional guidance: The comments below are illustrative and are not intended to be exhaustive. Candidates may make other valid comments that should be credited. Candidates may organise their response in any appropriate way. They are not required to focus on child-directed speech and children’s language features in separate sections. Responses might feature the following: Child-directed speech <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Intonation, volume and stress to emphasize words. • Statements with rising intonation to act as questions, intended to encourage Kaylee to talk e.g. she fell? • Recasting to correct what Kaylee says e.g. shes right there. • Questions to encourage Kaylee to interact e.g. do you want to kiss her. • Modelling speech for Kaylee to copy e.g. say im sorry you fell down. 	25

Question	Answer	Marks
2	Children’s language features <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ability to use telegraphic speech structures e.g. baby go nap. • Uses the simple present tense such as i tie and i want, as well as occasional use of the past tense: i got it. • Use of varied intonation and emphatic stress to give information. • Competent use of turn taking: the exchanges are mostly fulfilled adjacency pairs led by the mother. • Proficiency in using some parts of speech including pronouns (i, it, you, she, that), verbs (want, tie, use), nouns (chair, doll), determiners (my, this). • Shows phonological development e.g. /bu:n/ for ‘balloon’ and /beɪslət/ for ‘bracelet’. References to relevant theories and research should be integrated into the response and may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Halliday’s functions of language: Representational – i use my chair momma ; Imaginative – baby go nap; Regulatory – sit down; Instrumental – i want my /beɪslət/ on. • Skinner (Behaviourism), e.g. positive reinforcement from the mother(i did get it). • Chomsky (innateness/language acquisition device), e.g. production of telegraphic speech structures. • Piaget (cognitive development), e.g. comments on the pre-operational stage of Kaylee. • Vygotsky, e.g. scaffolding leading to Kaylee reaching her zone of proximal development – Kaylee: she /f/, then Mother: she fell. • Bruner (Language Acquisition Support System), e.g. seen in the utterances of mother.
