Paper 2 The Family

February/March 2023

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 60

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the February/March 2023 series for most Cambridge IGCSE™, Cambridge International A and AS Level components and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 19 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptors for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

Social Science-Specific Marking Principles (for point-based marking)*1 Components using point-based marking:

- Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

- a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term)
- b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct
- c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons ...).
- d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used wrongly.)
- e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities
- f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).
- g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion)

2 Presentation of mark scheme:

- Slashes (/) or the word 'or' separate alternative ways of making the same point.
- Semi colons (;) bullet points (•) or figures in brackets (1) separate different points.
- Content in the answer column in brackets is for examiner information/context to clarify the marking but is not required to earn the mark (except Accounting syllabuses where they indicate negative numbers).

3 Calculation questions:

- The mark scheme will show the steps in the most likely correct method(s), the mark for each step, the correct answer(s) and the mark for each answer
- If working/explanation is considered essential for full credit, this will be indicated in the question paper and in the mark scheme. In all other instances, the correct answer to a calculation should be given full credit, even if no supporting working is shown.
- Where the candidate uses a valid method which is not covered by the mark scheme, award equivalent marks for reaching equivalent stages.
- Where an answer makes use of a candidate's own incorrect figure from previous working, the 'own figure rule' applies: full marks will be given if a correct and complete method is used. Further guidance will be included in the mark scheme where necessary and any exceptions to this general principle will be noted.

4 Annotation:

- For point marking, ticks can be used to indicate correct answers and crosses can be used to indicate wrong answers. There is no direct relationship between ticks and marks. Ticks have no defined meaning for levels of response marking.
- For levels of response marking, the level awarded should be annotated on the script.
- Other annotations will be used by examiners as agreed during standardisation, and the meaning will be understood by all examiners who marked that paper.

Using the mark scheme

Some of the questions are marked holistically using levels of response mark schemes. When marking holistically, the marks awarded for an answer are usually based on a judgement of the overall quality of the response.

For holistic marking, inevitably, the mark scheme cannot cover all responses that candidates may make for all of the questions. In some cases, candidates may make some responses which the mark scheme has not predicted. These answers should nevertheless be credited according to their quality.

1	Describe two features of a nuclear family. Indicative content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Traditionally two heterosexual parents. • Common residence/living together under same roof. • One or more children biological or adopted. • Traditionally a couple based on marriage. • Traditionally has segregated gender roles/division of labour. • Traditionally patriarchal. • Modern nuclear families more likely to have joint conjugal roles. • Isolated from extended kin/privatised. • Two generational. • Any other appropriate feature. Reward a maximum of two features. For each feature, up to 2 marks are available: 1 mark for identifying a relevant feature. 1 mark for describing the identified feature. (2 × 2 marks)	4

2(a)	Explain two ways social policies may influence family life. Indicative content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Make divorce easier/harder. • Promotion/restriction of particular family types e.g. China’s various child policies actively influenced the number of children a family is to have. • Greater protections for children/women e.g. against domestic violence/abuse. • Welfare system to financially help poorer families – provide basic level of existence/prevent extreme poverty/encourage single parent families who would otherwise not be able to afford to have children. • Enable greater equality between genders – equal rights in the workplace for women has tended to give them greater power/voice in the family. • Resulted in an increase in family diversity – Western societies in particular have tended to promote the inclusivity of family types not considered traditional e.g. same sex marriage. • Increased the length of childhood – parents are legally/financially responsible for their offspring for a longer period. • Compulsory education – children are not able to join the workforce to economically support the family. • Promote marriage – governments may offer tax incentives to couples who lived together as a married couple. • Legal age restrictions e.g. when can marry/start a family. • Any other appropriate way For this question, use of sociological material is likely to be demonstrated through references to liberal feminist sociologists and New Right theorists, policies / Acts e.g. Child Protection Act, Equality Act 2010 (UK), Civil Partnership Act 2004 (UK) and concepts such as cycle of poverty, welfare dependency, lone parent, same sex families, empty shell marriages etc. Reward a maximum of two ways. Up to 4 marks are available for each way: 1 mark for making a point / giving a way (e.g. has made gaining a divorce harder) 1 mark for explaining that point (e.g. some policies have been introduced to reduce divorce rates) 1 mark for selecting relevant sociological material (e.g. ‘Civil code’ introduced in China) 1 mark for explaining how the material supports the point (e.g. established a compulsory 30 day ‘cooling off’ period for couples who intend to divorce) (2 × 4 marks)	8

Question	Answer	Marks
2(b)	Explain one strength and one limitation of New Right views of the family. Indicative content Strengths <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Recognises the negative impact on society of inadequate socialisation due to the increase in lone parent mothers. • Highlights the role of the state in eroding the nuclear family / failed to protect marriage. • Brings attention to the cycle of poverty the over generous welfare system creates. • Highlights the importance of the nuclear family in bringing social stability through providing appropriate socialisation of children. • Any other appropriate strength. Limitations <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Fails to positively recognise family diversity/the benefits of family diversity. • They exaggerate the decline of the nuclear family – most adults still marry and have children. • Outdated as underestimate capability of women to fulfil the economic needs of the family/just as capable as men as breadwinners. • Does not consider that single/lone mothers/same sex families can receive support from wider kin. • Fails to recognise the positivity in the rise in divorce – women are freeing themselves from the oppressive relationships. • They fail to consider the negative aspects of the nuclear family/don't consider the dark side/harmful exploitation of women. • It's 'one size fits all' approach to the family does not take into account the complexities and individualistic needs that makes family life so diversified. • Any other appropriate limitation. Reward a maximum of one strength. For this strength, up to 3 marks are available: 1 mark for identifying a strength of New Right (e.g. recognises the negative impact on society of inadequate socialisation due to the increase in lone parent mothers) 1 mark for explaining why New Right has this strength (they highlight the importance of a male role model in positively socialising children) 1 mark for explaining why it is a strength (e.g. this led to policies promoting marriage e.g. marriage tax allowance to keep parents together/keep the father directly in the child's life) Reward a maximum of one limitation. For this limitation, up to 3 marks are available: 1 mark for identifying a limitation of New Right (e.g. fails to positively recognise family diversity) 1 mark for describing why New Right has this limitation (e.g. sees heterosexual marriage as the norm and the ideal)	6

	1 mark for explaining why it is a limitation (e.g. this ignores that many people live happy and positive lives in other family types outside of the nuclear family) (2 × 3 marks)
