Paper 2 The Family

May/June 2022

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 60

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2022 series for most Cambridge IGCSE, Cambridge International A and AS Level and Cambridge Pre-U components, and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 17 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptors for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

Social Science-Specific Marking Principles
(for point-based marking)*1 Components using point-based marking:

- Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

- a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term)
- b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct
- c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons ...).
- d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used wrongly.)
- e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities
- f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).
- g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion)

2 Presentation of mark scheme:

- Slashes (/) or the word 'or' separate alternative ways of making the same point.
- Semi colons (;) bullet points (•) or figures in brackets (1) separate different points.
- Content in the answer column in brackets is for examiner information/context to clarify the marking but is not required to earn the mark (except Accounting syllabuses where they indicate negative numbers).

3 Calculation questions:

- The mark scheme will show the steps in the most likely correct method(s), the mark for each step, the correct answer(s) and the mark for each answer
- If working/explanation is considered essential for full credit, this will be indicated in the question paper and in the mark scheme. In all other instances, the correct answer to a calculation should be given full credit, even if no supporting working is shown.
- Where the candidate uses a valid method which is not covered by the mark scheme, award equivalent marks for reaching equivalent stages.
- Where an answer makes use of a candidate's own incorrect figure from previous working, the 'own figure rule' applies: full marks will be given if a correct and complete method is used. Further guidance will be included in the mark scheme where necessary and any exceptions to this general principle will be noted.

4 Annotation:

- For point marking, ticks can be used to indicate correct answers and crosses can be used to indicate wrong answers. There is no direct relationship between ticks and marks. Ticks have no defined meaning for levels of response marking.
- For levels of response marking, the level awarded should be annotated on the script.
- Other annotations will be used by examiners as agreed during standardisation, and the meaning will be understood by all examiners who marked that paper.

Using the mark scheme

Some of the questions are marked using a point-based system, awarding marks for specific points and accumulating a total mark by adding points.

Some of the questions are marked using level of response. For these, the level descriptor represents performance at the top of the level.

For levels of response marking you should:

- award a mark at the top of the level if all criteria in the level are met
- consider the level descriptors across the full range, bearing in mind that it is not necessary for a candidate to give a faultless performance for maximum marks to be awarded within any single category
- award marks on a 'best-fit' basis; thus, compensation between higher and lower achievement for different criteria is acceptable

For Question 4 and Question 5, award a mark for each assessment objective separately, using the level descriptors at the end of the mark scheme.

In some cases, candidates may provide a response which the mark scheme has not predicted. These answers should nevertheless be credited according to their quality.

Question	Answer	Marks
1	Describe two ways the increase in women in paid employment has affected the family. Indicative content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Women have greater economic power – can lead to a more equal sharing of household chores / power between genders / greater gender equality / growth of symmetrical families. • Focussed on career before / rather than starting family – increased average age of first marriage / fewer marriages taking place. • Women are having fewer children – increase in child centeredness. • Growth of dual income families – improved quality of life due to better finances. • Increasingly financially independent – increased levels of divorce / growth in single parent female headed families. • Women no longer adopting main childcaring role / both parents now working – greater involvement of grandparents in taking care of children. • Adopting primary breadwinner role – men can increasingly undertake the expressive role / swapping of traditional roles / ‘stay-at-home dads’. • Dual/triple burden on women – women are still expected to fulfil traditional expressive role in addition to paid employment. • More mothers working – increasingly leaving childcare responsibilities to the fathers. • Women adopting traditional male role of breadwinner – can cause tensions in relationship and lead to abuse or divorce, etc. • Mothers spending less time with their children – can possibly have negative impact on the socialisation of the child if both parents working. • Growth in ‘new man’ / stay-at-home dads – men are increasingly taking on more of the domestic duties within the family. • Any other appropriate way. Reward a maximum of two ways. For each way, up to 2 marks are available: 1 mark for identifying a way. 1 mark for describing how the way has impacted on the family. (2 × 2 marks)	4

2(a)	Explain two ways the family supports the economy. Indicative content <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Contributes economically through buying products – ensures profits. • Socialisation of children into attitudes required of a compliant worker / acceptance of hierarchy. • Pester power – children targeted as consumers to persuade parents to spend more / child centredness. • Reproduction of the next generation of workers / replacing dead workers. • Stabilises adult personalities so ensuring wage earner is focused on working / warm bath / relieves the man of his frustration from alienation and exploitation in the workplace – this prevents them from downing tools and striking. • Workers pay taxes from the wages they earn. • Any other appropriate way. For this question, use of sociological material is likely to be demonstrated through references to functionalist and Marxist sociologists, e.g. Murdock and Parsons, Althusser and concepts such as warm bath, primary socialisation, ideology, capitalism. Reward a maximum of two ways. Up to 4 marks are available for each way: 1 mark for making a point / giving a way (e.g. the family buys products). 1 mark for explaining that point (e.g. the family no longer produces its own goods, instead buys them from the capitalists who own the means of production). 1 mark for selecting relevant sociological material (e.g. unit of consumption). 1 mark for explaining how the material supports the point (e.g. this provides a profit for the capitalists as the goods cost less to produce than what they are sold for). (2 × 4 marks)	8

Question	Answer	Marks
2(b)	Explain two strengths of Marxist views of the family. Indicative content Strengths <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Highlights the close relationship between the family and capitalism/the economy. • Highlights the economic importance of the family as a unit of consumption. • Identifies that the family performs an ideological role. • Highlights the inequalities of power that take place within the family. • Highlights the exploitation women experience within the family due to capitalism (MFem). • Any other appropriate strength. Reward a maximum of two strengths. For each strength, up to 3 marks are available: 1 mark for identifying a strength of Marxism (e.g. it highlights the close relationship between the family and capitalism). 1 mark for describing why Marxism has this strength (e.g. they argue that the family supports and maintains capitalist exploitation). 1 mark for explaining why it is a strength (e.g. this provides a more critical perspective on the relationship between the family and society than some other theories). (2 × 3 marks)	6
