I met Tomás and Ana at school, when we were all about fourteen years old. My first impressions of Tomás were that he was clever but quiet, and Ana seemed friendly and was always cheerful.

We all began singing when the drama teacher asked us to take part in a play with music at Christmas. Tomás also played his guitar and Ana was the best dancer and singer of all.

We became good friends and started playing music at my house several times a week. Within two years there were five of us in the band and we were playing in local clubs and concerts.

Last year was absolutely amazing. After making our first album we appeared on television and radio and sang on the most popular music programmes. All the tickets for our concerts were sold straight away. We want to thank everyone for their interest. We couldn't have done it without you!
